Japan Warns Russia To Quit Mobilizing Army

RED TROOPS HELD NEAR MANCHURIA DISPLEASE JAPAN

RUSSIANS DENY WARLIKE GESTURE

England Hears 30,000 Men of Stalin Are Camped at Manchurian Frontier and Japan Is Angry.

TOKYO, Oct. 28.—(Wednesday)—Baron Shidehara, the foreign minister, in a memorandum forwarded today to Moscow, requested that Russian troops be withdrawn from the Manchurian-Siberian border. He said the military operations might be misinterpreted. Shidehara's communication said the Russian troop demonstrations were causing an unpleasant effect on Japanese as well as Chinese soldiers. The foreign minister said he was deeply concerned.

Chinese reports to the Japanese consul at Tatsienlin indicate that between 20,000 and 30,000 Russian troops are concentrated in the vicinity of Poganichovaya, or Suifenho, north of Vladivostok, and also west of Manchouli on another front. Tokyo vernacular newspapers today published Harbin dispatches stating the Russians have sent arms and ammunition to the Amur army, composed of Chinese and Mongols, which were reported aiming to establish Amur as an independent state with Tatsienlin as the capital.

The dispatches said the Amur troops are endeavoring Japanese interests on the Taonan-Anghai railway. The Soviet government, through its ambassador, Klement Voroshilov, denied reports that Soviet troops were being mobilized on the Manchurian border.

A dispatch from Peiping said, however, that Soviet authorities, fearing Russia might be involved in the Manchurian troubles between China and Japan, had concentrated tanks on the border and were making precautionary preparations for the transportation of troops.

BANDITRY SPREADING IN MANCHURIAN PROVINCE
LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Wednesday)—A Mukden dispatch says banditry is spreading in the Manchurian province of Heilongjiang, causing grave concern to Japanese military headquarters there.

The Japanese dispatch added, however, that Soviet troops are at no point in Manchuria where Japanese lives are in danger, even as far as Tatsienlin, Chinchow, or Harbin.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the Japanese intend to retain large quantities of war material seized in Mukden until the Manchurian dispute between China and Japan has been fully settled.

This report was attributed to an official announcement from headquarters of General Honjoh, Japanese commander in Manchuria, which added that all military supplies found within military compounds would be handed over to Japanese authorities.

All the Manchurian territory adjacent to Mongolia is subject to raids from outlaws who wander over the high plains of Mongolia and hide in its remote mountains when pursued. These robbers have always defied Chinese authority and also scout the control of the government now established at Urga, the Mongolian capital, and affiliated with the Moscow soviet government.

Mongolia is a semi-arid empire devoted almost entirely to grazing. Its inhabitants are nomads sparsely scattered through a territory which is without railways and highways. Mongolia is inhabited chiefly by Mongolians who have small herds of sheep, cattle and goats.

During the civil wars which kept Siberia in a ferment and because of the famine and war in China, many Russians and Chinese have also wandered into Mongolia.

Imperial Russia always regarded Mongolia as a buffer state between China and Russia and the soviet regime has adopted the same policy.

Capone Bodyguard Asks Mercy in Contempt Case

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(P)—Philip D'Andrea, Al Capone's companion and bodyguard, asked the mercy of the court today, admitted he carried a loaded pistol into the court room during the Capone income tax trial, but said he had no intention of obstructing justice.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson said he would dispose of the case, in which D'Andrea was ordered to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court, at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

CAPONE IS DENIED FREEDOM ON BOND; APPEAL IS GRANTED

Counsel for Gangster Says Convicted Man May Prefer Leavenworth to Cook County Jail During Course of Legal Battle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(P)—"Scarface Al" Capone was given a temporary choice of prisons today, but not his freedom.

The United States circuit court of appeals granted the gangster income tax case a writ of supersedeas, thus denying the marshal the immediate privilege of escorting him to the Leavenworth penitentiary, but it followed the lead of the trial judge in denying Capone bail during his appeal.

This gave the gang chief the status of a temporary prisoner in the Cook county jail, with the prospect of remaining there several months while the higher courts were asked to reverse his convictions. Defense Attorney Michael Ahern indicated this was far from satisfactory to his client.

He might want the court to vacate its order, so that Capone could start his term at Leavenworth. Ahern said, Judge Samuel Alschuler, replying for the court, said in effect that it made no difference which prison he spent there, just so long as he was not at large.

The county jail has its advantages. There Capone was close to home. His old friends and companions, Philip Ahern said, Judge Samuel Alschuler, replying for the court, said in effect that it made no difference which prison he spent there, just so long as he was not at large.

Life at the Leavenworth prison has been represented as somewhat rigorous, with few privileges. Some of Capone's former henchmen were there, but there was no assurance he would have any of them.

But if he decided to go there now, Capone could begin working off his sentence at once. If his conviction were reversed, he would have merely changed prisons.

The problem was one which Ahern did not want to decide alone. On the court's assurance that the supersedeas order could be vacated at any time, Ahern withdrew his appeal. Capone and Albert Fink, another defense attorney, tried to get a supreme court justice to grant the writ.

In granting the writ, the appellate court cautioned Capone's lawyers that they must "proceed with expedition," saying that if the appeal brief were not filed in due time, the court would entertain a motion to vacate the supersedeas.

The defense has already docketed the appeal and may file its brief at any time. The government was ordered to file its brief 15 days after Capone's brief had been filed. The court added that the appeal would then be set for oral arguments immediately.

In its order suspending execution of Capone's sentence, the court stated specifically that it was "not suspending any proceeding for collection of the judgment for fine and costs awarded to the government."

Capone was fined $50,000 and assessed the costs of prosecution, estimated at about $100,000.

Bankers Will Gather Here Today To Map Credit Corporation Plans

Bankers representing clearing houses in five southern states will meet in the federal reserve bank this morning at 10 o'clock to complete subscriptions for the sixth district's portion of the half-billion-dollar national credit corporation, suggested by President Hoover as a stimulant to business.

HOOPER OPPOSES EARLY LIBERATION FOR PHILIPPINES

President Believes Finances Should Be Put in Better Shape Before Independence Is Given.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—President Hoover is convinced the American flag should remain over the Philippines, where Dewey raised it in '98, until a firmer footing is found for the islands' finances.

Mindful of a new crusade for independence, he accepted the challenge of a controversy with congress today by declaring freedom under present conditions would be disastrous for the Filipino people themselves. His exact words were:

"Independence tomorrow without assured economic stability would result in the collapse of Philippine government revenues and the collapse of all economic life in the islands."

Mr. Hoover made his statement just after his cabinet had heard Secretary Hurley, newly returned from an insular tour of investigation, repeat the preliminary report he gave the president yesterday. The secretary of war believed there should be no independence without economic readjustments.

The cabinet met more than two hours, longer than usual. Mr. Hurley discussed many aspects of how the more than 12,500,500-tan-skinned people 7,000 miles away in the Pacific might be dealt with.

Impressed by this presentation, President Hoover adjourned the session and soon afterward spoke his mind. He was smiling when news-papers correspondents crowded around his desk for the Tuesday noon press conference. After a lot of greeting to some personal friends, he leaned over to the desk and read a rough-drawn draft of his remarks. To these he referred in his rapid talk.

Official Text.
The official text made available more than an hour later, follows: "With Secretary's Hurley's return, the cabinet this morning discussed the Philippine question at considerable length. We explored the subject, but formulated no conclusive policies in the matter. These discussions will be continued."

Independence of the Philippines at this time has been directly or indirectly promised by every president and by the congress. In accordance with the undertakings the problem is one of time.

"In the interest of the Philippine people, the time element involves the necessity that independence must be assured of durability and the government of the Philippines must be assured of stability."

"For instance, the economic independence of the Philippines must be attained before political independence can be successful. Independence to the Philippines at this time would result in the collapse of Philippine government revenues and the collapse of all economic life in the islands."

"We propose to give further consideration to the whole question in the immediate future."

This promise of further consideration was no news to Washington, for expectations of agitation over the independence question have been to grant the writ.

Rocky Mountain Area Is Visited by Snow

DENVER, Oct. 27.—(P)—Winter's first visit to the Rocky Mountain region was merely a blustery gesture today.

A snowstorm that swept across the western part of Wyoming yesterday hied itself in the mountain country without doing serious damage or leaving any heavy precipitation behind.

Great Dirigible's Majestic Beauty Thrills Atlanta 'Navy Day' Crowds

For more than an hour, the Los Angeles flew above Atlanta and suburbs Tuesday on the airship's first official visit to this city.

Arriving unexpectedly an hour ahead of her schedule, the giant silver dirigible Los Angeles paid Atlanta a visit Tuesday, cruised over business and residential sections for an hour and then fled to Parris Island, S. C., to escape reported bad weather. Shortly after the dirigible arrived, Lieutenant Ward Harrigan swept upward in a navy bomber to the breast of the mother ship and there attached his craft to the lighter-than-air vessel. The fighting plane appeared as a wasp beneath the bulk of the Los Angeles. After the first release, Lieutenant Harrigan made a second contact and while hanging in the mooring device was informed that the dirigible was soon to head northward.

The smoky haze that hung over Atlanta brought disappointment to thousands who had hoped to witness one of the most daring stunts of the air. The sight from eyes on the ground.

HUGE CREDIT POOL NEAR COMPLETION

Plans Abandoned To Give Immediate Aid to Rail Bond Holders.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—With subscriptions pouring in, President Hoover's big credit pool will be ready by the end of the week to begin its task of providing ready cash for banks unable to turn their assets quickly into currency.

The president has been informed that the $500,000,000 fund will be ready by the end of the week to begin its task of providing ready cash for banks unable to turn their assets quickly into currency.

Some officials have felt it might be possible, under government leadership, to help weak railroads out of trouble and avoid any further receiverships. It was the belief that such a step, if it proved feasible, would have a good effect on conditions generally.

One proposal put up to the government for the mobilization of a special pool by private bankers and insurance companies are heavy holders of railway securities.

After inquiry, however, this was found to present many difficulties. At the present time all preparations of this character have been put into the background. In any case, the administration would not act while another branch of the government, the interstate commerce commission, has pending before the roads of the country.

HOFFMAN GUILTY IN U. S. MAIL CASE

Edward P. Hoffman, convicted Tuesday afternoon in federal district court of using the mails to promote a fraud, today faces a sentence of 20 years in the penitentiary, should Judge E. Marvin Underwood see fit to impose the maximum penalty. Sentence will be passed later.

GERMANS EXPECT FRANCE TO OPEN DEBT DISCUSSION

Ambassador's Report From Washington Stirs Berlin's Hope for Early Action on Reparations.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER.
BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(P)—The German foreign office expects Premier Pierre Laval on his return to France to instruct with American support what will turn out to be a re-examination of war debts as well as reparations.

This expectation, it is understood, is based in part at least on reports received by the foreign office from Dr. Friedrich Wilhelm von Preuss-Gaffron, Germany's ambassador at Washington. The reports cover the conferences between President Hoover and the French premier. M. Laval is now on his way back to the Ile de France.

The ambassador's report, it was said, have enabled the German leaders to see more clearly what is expected of them by the premier and the president.

"What will probably happen," said the foreign office spokesman, "is this: M. Laval will ask authorization from the French cabinet to suggest to Germany that she take the initiative and ask for the appointment of a special committee from the Bank for International Settlements as provided in the Young plan."

The suggestion will be seconded by the American government.

"This committee will probably soon find that the reparations question cannot be settled without also tackling war debts, so that Germany's action will logically lead to a discussion of the interrelated debts."

In diplomatic circles here the most hopeful aspect of the present situation is seen in the forthcoming Washington trip of Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, who has been visiting the German chancellor.

Signor Grandi has declined for reasons of tact to comment on M. Laval's American trip, but the situation created by the Hoover-Laval conversations. But those who had occasion to meet him during his Berlin visit said he was representative of the situation in Europe which, like the United States, is anxious to forget the war and to rebuild on the basis of mutual trust, reduction of armaments and the elimination of everything calculated to keep war memories alive.

TILSON OPPOSES OPENING OF REVISION DISCUSSION
WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—The view that the question of cancellation of war debts would not be reopened at this time was expressed today by Representative Tilson, of Connecticut.

Tilson was the republican floor leader in the last house and is a candidate for the speakership nomination. "I don't think there is anything that would indicate reopening of the question of cancellation of the war debts and I certainly don't see any indication of default of payments," he said.

Questioned as to the Hoover-Laval conference, Tilson said: "I hope and believe that the conference will prove helpful in the revival of confidence in international stability."

Signor Grandi entrained for home late tonight. Chancellor Bruening and officials of the foreign office were at the station to see him off.

Oglethorpe's 'College of the Air' To Broadcast From Shrine Mosque

Radio Station WJTL, of Oglethorpe University, will move into new studios in the Shrine mosque, at Peachtree and Ponce de Leon avenue, and begin broadcasting from there on or about November 10. Dr. Thorndell Jacobs, president of the university, announced Tuesday before a meeting of the Oglethorpe Woman's Board, at the Shrine mosque, that the station, on the shrine and antenna tower has been under way for several weeks and completion is in sight, he said.

LABOR IS BEATEN MORE THAN 8 TO 1 IN PARTIAL COUNT

FORMER MINISTERS SWEEP IN DISCARD

Fate of Prime Minister Is Not Determined; If He Loses at Seaham He Can Get New Seat.

BY HARRY FLORY.
LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Wednesday.) (UP)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's national government buried the labor party today under the greatest election landslide in modern British history.

Led by Stanley Baldwin's conservative party, the national cabinet supporters smashed the socialist attack in the milllands, in the Scottish highlands, in the great industrial regions and in every other part of the nation where the voters responded to MacDonald's plea for a free hand in dealing with the national financial and economic emergency.

With 287 of the total of 615 seats in the house of commons already decided, the national government parties, conservatives, most liberals and MacDonald laborites had won a total of 264 seats as compared to 23 for the labor party. A total of 308 is required for a majority.

It was estimated that, if the national government landslide continued proportionately in the remaining constituencies, the labor party would have only about 50 seats in the new parliament as compared to the 288 they won in 1929 when led by MacDonald.

Lloyd George Appeal Falls.
The liberal party factions, led by Sir John Simon and Sir Herbert Samuel, were assured of winning more than 50 seats, regardless of the results in the constituencies where David Lloyd George, the liberal leader, and his handful of loyal and irreconcilable "free trade" liberals are seeking re-election. Lloyd George's appeal against tariffs and in opposition to the new cabinet's program was definitely rejected by the voters in the vast majority of constituencies—a severe blow to the Welsh liberal leader.

A reckoning of the standing by parties gave the following tabulation:

Conservative Party.
Sir John Simon liberals, 17.
National laborites, 5.
Regular liberals under Sir Herbert Samuel, 22.

The government party had gained 115 seats at the expense of the laborites. Of these, the conservatives had won 101 seats, and were scheduled to win a party majority in the house of commons which would enable them to form a purely conservative party government when the present crisis is past.

The independent new party, led by Sir Oswald Mosley, failed to win a seat in returns available up to 4 seats. The next returns will be delayed until about 11 a. m.

Paradoxically, MacDonald's crushing defeat of his former allies, the laborites, left the prime minister himself in a difficult position.

CO-ORDINATION CALLED TRANSPORTATION NEED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Discussing the grave transportation emergency with which the country is confronted, Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age and chairman of the Simmons-Boardman Publishing Company, speaking here today before the Society of Automotive Engineers, stressed the present oversupply of transportation facilities in this country and stated that "the only solution of this problem which will promote the national welfare will be the effecting of economically sound co-ordination between all our different means of transportation."

"You can never have economically sound co-ordination of different means of transportation until those who render transportation service upon the highways, like those who render transportation service by railway, pay out of their own earnings all the costs incurred in enabling them to render their service. When the railways pay out of their earnings all the costs incurred in rendering their service, and the public pays in taxes a large part of the costs incurred in rendering transportation service by highway, the rates charged and the traffic handled by the different carriers are sure to have no relationship to the total costs incurred in providing their different kinds of service."

Statistics indicate that at present more than one-half of the money being spent annually on our highways is derived from general property taxes and less than one-half from motor vehicle taxes. Now, it seems to me that, on sound economic principles, practically all the money spent upon the highways should be derived from motor vehicle taxes. If it is a sound economic principle that the users of the highways should pay all the costs of providing and maintaining them, then it follows that in the aggregate our highway users are paying less than one-half as much for their use as they should be paying. One of the things we most need as an aid to the solution of our general transportation problem is an impartial and thorough investigation regarding the total amount that should be paid for the use of the highways by all who use them, and regarding how this total amount should be distributed among the various classes of users.

"Further, true co-ordination can be secured only by subjecting all means of transportation to similar regulation. There can be no economically sound co-ordination while some means of transportation are subjected to comprehensive and drastic regulation of their service and rate-making while competing carriers are subjected to no such regulation. What is most needed in the interest of the public welfare is abolition of the wide difference between the way in which our national and state governments now treat the railways and the way they treat other means of transportation."

No Destruction Seen.
"I am far from believing that equal government treatment of all agencies of transportation will drive motor buses and trucks from the highways. I have long urged the railways to use motor buses and trucks extensively to replace much of their unprofitable local passenger and freight train service; to render store-door collection and delivery of freight, and to extend their passenger service to points not now reached by their lines. It is gratifying that, in spite of governmental policies which discourage rather than encourage co-ordination, some progress has already been made in this direction. More than 80 of the steam railways, including some of the leading carriers, are now operating motor coaches, and a slightly smaller number as using motor trucks."

"Motor buses are being used, to a quite large extent by some roads, to replace train service which has become unremunerative because of traffic losses to private automobiles. The dozen leading railways which are operating motor coaches on an extensive scale are each saving from $100,000 to $1,000,000 a year by the replacement of passenger trains. To the extent that these motor coaches handle traffic, either at a profit or at a relatively small loss, which a railway train cannot handle at anything except a large loss, they fit clearly into the picture of co-ordinated transportation."

"There is a similar situation with respect to motor trucks. Substantial economies in the handling of less-than-carload freight are being obtained by railways through the substitution of motor trucks on tractor and trailer service for freight car transfer movements in terminals and for short-haul freight train operation on light traffic branch lines and even upon main lines. On October 1 all of the railways in the territory between St. Louis, Omaha and Denver on the north and the Gulf of Mexico and the international border on the south began to handle less-than-carload freight under a tariff which provides for pick-up and delivery service by motor truck at no extra charge on shipments moving a distance of 300 miles or less. These activities point the way, but what has been done is inconsequential compared to what can be done when the proper basis for sound and economic co-ordination has been provided.

"Under competition on equal terms, each class of carrier will soon be left supreme in its own natural economic field, and each class of carrier will, in my opinion, the result will be that the railways will again become almost the sole long-haul inland carriers of the country; that the trucks will retain and increase their terminal and short-haul business; and that co-ordinated rail-truck service will carry a large and increasing amount of traffic from the door of the shipper to the door of the consignee."

C. E. ALLEN RITES TO BE HELD HERE

Services for Macon Banker in Baptist Tabernacle
at 2 P. M. Today.

Funeral services for Clarence E. Allen, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Macon, Ga., who was killed in a train-auto-

CLARENCE E. ALLEN.

mobile crash near Forrest Park Monday will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Baptist Tabernacle church. Dr. W. A. Bowen, of Hope, Ark., and Dr. J. Ellis Sammons, of Macon, will officiate. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Macon friends of the former Atlanta banker will gather at 11 o'clock this morning at Hart's chapel for services to be held before the body is brought here. Dr. Sammons, pastor of the Vineville Baptist church of which Mr. Allen was a member, will have charge of the ceremonies in Macon. The cortege will leave Macon for this city immediately following, and will arrive here at 1:30 o'clock.

Awtry and Lowndes will meet the procession at Stewart avenue and Whitehall street, and will proceed to the Tabernacle.

Members of the board of directors, officers and employees of the First National Bank of Atlanta, and the First National Bank and Trust Company of Macon, and local members of the board of trustees of Mercer University, Dr. Louis D. Newton, Julian M. Harrison, and Hugh M. Willett, will form an honorary escort.

Mr. Allen, a native of Atlanta, was born April 30, 1886. He was for many years connected with Bradstreet, and later became credit manager of the Lowry bank. He was steadily promoted through a series of mergers, and when the First National Bank acquired the Continental Trust Company he was appointed its president under the new name.

Returning to Macon after a weekend visit with brothers here, Mr. Allen's car was totally demolished when struck by the northbound Dixie Flyer at Forrest Park, near Jonesboro.
Identified by papers in his pockets, he was placed on the Flamingo, which arrived a few minutes later, and taken to Macon. According to the train crew, Mr. Allen neither heard nor saw the train before driving onto the tracks.

Surviving are his wife; three sons,
C. E. Allen Jr., Fred Allen, and Luther Allen; four daughters, Mrs.
Emory Upshaw and Miss Helen Allen, of Atlanta, Miss Martha Allen, of Macon, and Mrs. Clarence A. Sikes, of Nashville, Tenn.; one sister, Mrs.
W. A. Sims, of Atlanta; and seven brothers, Fred L. Allen, of Knoxville, Tenn.; G. W. Allen, A. A. Allen, C.
Ernest Allen, and C. G. Allen, of Atlanta; B. M. Allen, of New York, and J. W. Allen, of Port, Ark.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR SUICIDE VICTIM

Rites for Hiram A. Dodson, 42, of 234 Moreland avenue, World War veteran, who shot himself at the residence Monday, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon. The body was returned to Rex, Ga., for interment in the Dodson cemetery.

Dodson, who was shell-shocked in France and spent most of last year in Base Hospital No. 48, went into the bedroom on arriving home Monday night and shot himself through the right temple. Mrs. Dodson told police. A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury Tuesday afternoon. He was a past master of the Rex Lodge F. & A. M., and a past patron of the Rose Croix chapter of the Eastern Star.

He is survived by his wife; three sisters, Mrs. High Askew, of Stockbridge; Mrs. Roy Elliott, of Rex, and Miss Cleo Dodson, and one brother, Marvin Dodson.

MRS. MARY D. OSBORNE DIES IN CHARLOTTE
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—
Mrs. Mary Dewey Osborne, 75, mother of Lieutenant Colonel Thomas D. Osborne, of Washington, assistant to the chief of field artillery, U. S. A., died

Other surviving sons and daughters are Mrs. Webster Allen Capron, wife of a lieutenant colonel at San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. George V. Holton, of Plandome, Long Island, and James Osborne, Charlotte attorney, formerly of New York.

CHARLES J. WEIR.
CORAL GABLES, Fla., Oct. 27.—
(AP)—Charles J. Weir, 63, retired attorney and former member of the Massachusetts house of representatives, died at his home here last night.
The body will be taken to his former home in Lowell, Mass.

DUKE OF TARIFA.
SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Oct. 27.—
(AP)—Carlos Fernandez Cordoba, Duke of Tarifa, widely known in the United States as a sportsman and owner of the largest hunting estate in Spain, died today of a heart attack.
He was 75.

World Easily Deceived By Fake Liquor Labels
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)— American printers have become so expert in faking liquor labels, District Prohibition Director Maurice McCannell said today, that "not one person in 10,000" can tell bottles marked with them from the genuine.

Less than 10 per cent of the liquor consumed in New York is genuine, McCannell said. He expressed the opinion that drinking in

B. W. Davis and W. E. Saunders Appeals Granted by Russell

Savannah Slayer Given 60-Day Respite and Former Councilman Gets 30-Day Stay.

Benjamin W. Davis, convicted of murder as a sane man in 1921 and later sent to Milledgeville when found to be insane, Tuesday was granted a 60-day respite by Governor Richard
B. Russell Jr. from a death sentence fixed for October 30. The governor, at the same time, announced a 30-day stay of sentence for W. E. Saunders, former Atlanta councilman, sentenced to serve a two-year sentence on the roads.

Davis, after remaining at Milledgeville for more than ten years, was recently found sane and "resentenced to death by Judge Peter W. Meldrim for slaying Thomas White, also of Savannah. The respite to him and the stay to Saunders were granted in order that the prison commission may have further time to study the record in the former case and time for attorneys to present an application for clemency in the Saunders case.

Attorneys for Davis are contending that he was financially unable to employ alienists at the time of the trial for murder and after his conviction and death sentence Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, not satisfied as to his condition, appointed a board of physicians to examine him. He was found insane and sent to Milledgeville.

Attorneys Weekes and Candler, of Decatur, and A. E. Wilson, of Atlanta, after obtaining a request from the prison commission, asked for the stay in the Saunders case.

"Some of the officials," their petition said, referring to the graft trials,
"entered guilty pleas and were let off with fines of $250 each but the applicant, not being guilty, demanded a

FARM BOARD PLEDGES COTTON HOLDING AID

Check Shows Banks Ready
To Finance 4,000,000 Bales.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 27.—(AP)— Bankers enlisting pledges of support for the cotton holding movement among southern bankers today apparently had the tacit approval of the federal farm board for an extension of time beyond October 25, the date set when the board became a partner with the bankers in an agreement to hold trial and was dealt with too harshly."

The petition asks that the three sentences of 12 months each, two of which run concurrently, be dismissed and that Saunders be let off with the $1,000 fine assessed against him.

7,000,000 bales of cotton from the market until July 31, 1932.

Nathan Adams, Dallas banker, who was chairman of the New Orleans meeting October 12, when the plan was drafted for bankers to hold every fourth bale of this year's crop, talked over long distance telephone with E.
F. Crenshaw, of New Orleans, general manager of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, and the latter expressed no anxiety over the delay in tabulating holding pledges.

Adams had received assurance of co-operation from bankers' associations in Oklahoma, South Carolina, Georgia and many other southern states. He said he was confident Texas would pledge more than than its share of the 3,500,000 bales bankers of the cotton-growing states were asking to hold off the market.

An unofficial check yesterday showed southern bank associations ready to finance more than 4,000,000 as their share of the holding movement.

Reports of pledges continued to come in slowly, the bankers scarcely having had sufficient opportunity to complete the task of compiling pledges because of the short time intervening between the first meeting in New Orleans, October 12, and the date for completion of the agreement with the farm board.

Ohio Governor Hurt In Automobile Crash

FINDLAY, Ohio, Oct. 27.—(AP)— Governor George White, of Ohio, received a fractured collarbone when his automobile skidded on a wet highway at Perryburg, near Toledo, about 5:30 this afternoon and went into a deep ditch. He was not otherwise injured.

Florida Parents Fined For Protest Whipping

BOYNTON, Fla., Oct. 27.—(AP)—
Because they remonstrated with R.
F. Williamson, school principal, for an alleged whipping he gave their son, Frank, a pupil, Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Whitehurst were fined $1 each in mayor's court here last night.

They were charged with disturbing the school principal's peace.
J. A. Youngblood, school superintendent, said a state law fore-bade any one upbraiding a public school principal in the presence of pupils.

GET INTO YOUR NEW Fighting Clothes

---AS AMERICA'S BEST MADE CLOTHES GO FORWARD TO HIGHER QUALITY PEAKS---AND PRICES GO BACK TO 15 YEARS AGO

There is nothing that puts fight and courage into a man more than good clothes

So give away your old clothes. They've gone as far as they need to

For prices—Hart Schaffner & Marx prices, at least—have been suddenly, sharply jammed back to the prices of 15 years ago! Radical? Sure! And in the same bold stroke, the quality of the clothes (already good) has been stepped up: you are now able to buy more honest-to-goodness value than you've bought for fifteen years

More than once in our own fifty years we've had to choose between catering to a flash-price market and banking on America's refusing to stay licked or even look licked for any length of time. Always we have believed that America would buy the highest quality at the lowest price. We have always won out. We shall win out this time

Throw away—or give away—your old, shiny clothes. You can't afford to be seen in them now—with prices back where you want them. Get into the new suits that will give you nerve and backbone and confidence—and save you money in the purchase. Trust your own good appearance. Trust the clothes that make it good. Trust the trustworthy Trumpeter label

We'll help you make the rest of '31 and all 1932 what you want the next year to be

Every One Is Giving More-- BECAUSE THE NEED IS SO MUCH GREATER

Miss Grace Woolford, salesgirl:
"Just from what I hear and see on all sides, I know how important even my gift will be this year. I am sure all of the girls in Atlanta stores who can give more are proud to do so, for the need has never been so urgent."

J. C. Sockwell, of 69 Cain Street, N. E., trolley car operator:

"I believe the street car men realize the GREATER need this year as much as any other group. Our work takes us all over the city, and believe me, there already is much suffering and there will be far more unless everyone gives to the limit of his ability. Some of the street railway divisions already have subscribed 100%. I'm glad to be able to increase my gift."

J. R. Kelly, test desk man, Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company:

"If increasing my gift to the Chest and Emergency Relief will help to get jobs for the others—as it will—I am coming across with more than ever. For I'm glad I've got a job and can give."

J. Sid Tiller, president Georgia Federation of Labor and vice president Atlanta Federation of Trades:

"Everywhere I hear that Atlanta's wage earners are rallying to the help of the less fortunate. I am sure that every worker with a job is going to increase his gift to the Community Chest and Emergency Relief as much as possible this year."

J. K. Otley, president of the First National Bank and member national relief committee:

"My work brought me not only into daily contact with the local need but with the need everywhere—that the more fortunate help their brothers. And while Atlanta admittedly is more fortunate than many communities, there are more urgent relief needs here than ever before. The Chest, and Community Relief Committee must be enabled to provide food, shelter and clothing for the needy; care for the sick, children and aged; and work for the unemployed. Of course my own subscription is being increased."

Those Who Understand Conditions Are Giving More This Year

Frank Neely, general manager of Rich's, Inc.:
"All signs point toward far greater need for relief funds this winter than ever before. In following the unemployment conditions for the past two years, I am convinced that while every penny that is collected is being spent wisely and constructively, a much larger amount must be raised NOW."

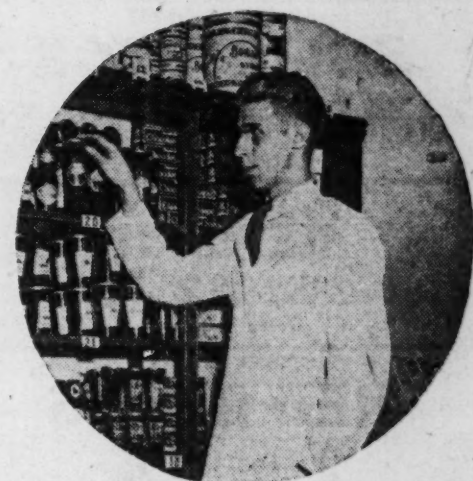

"We must all go beyond any of our former limits in providing for those not so fortunate."

Only through greatly increased subscriptions by those who are ABLE to give MORE to the Community Chest and Emergency Relief will Atlanta do its full duty by its unfortunates this winter.

The Contributions received thus far indicate clearly that the WAGE-EARNER and the SALARIED WORKER fully understand conditions and—like every individual whose picture appears on this page—THEY are contributing MORE than ever before, even where it has meant considerable personal sacrifice.

Atlanta MUST come through. This winter's acute distress MUST be relieved. If you haven't given to the full extent of your ability—your obligation to your community has not been fulfilled.

A. C. Ward, manager of Rogers Store, 142 Whitehall Street:

"Guess I'm lucky to be working where there's so much good food. Maybe that's why I realize what it would be to be without. The grocers are backing up the Chest virtually 100%. I'm going to give more than I feel I can afford this year and, if everyone else feels the same way about it, there won't be any hungry people in Atlanta this winter."

ATLANTA COMMUNITY CHEST AND EMERGENCY RELIEF

B. H. Bresee, cashier Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York:

"Everyone who has a job is fortunate, and it's up to these job-holders to help their less fortunate brothers. Of course, I've increased my subscription and I am sure that not only every insurance worker but every office worker in Atlanta, once the need is realized, will come through with the limit of their ability for the Chest and Emergency Relief."

Miss Allie Mann, president of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association:

"The school-teachers daily have first-hand knowledge of how much greater the need is this year. Underfed and poorly clothed children can not be good students. I am sure every school-teacher is going to give to the limit of her ability."

D. H. Samples, Black and White Cab Company:

"A taxi-driver feels hard times, I guess, as quickly as anybody. You don't need to tell me. I get all around town—day and night. What we need is to get more jobs for the good men who are out of work, maybe for the first time in their lives. I'm not making so much, but I'm sure giving more than ever—even if it hurts."

Legislative Session Sought To Relieve Sewer Situation

Gilliam Will Ask Council To Urge Russell To Call Meeting; Situation Termed "Unbearable."

Council Monday will be asked to urge Governor Richard B. Russell to call a special session of the Georgia legislature to enact laws to relieve "intolerable" conditions existing in metropolitan Atlanta because of the sewer situation.

Members of the sewer committee voted unanimously for the resolution, offered by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, after attention had been again called by William A. Omer, prominent developer and real estate man, to the nuisance Atlanta is maintaining in surrounding streams.

Legislation dealing with the problem was before the last session of the assembly, but died in the last-minute rush of both houses to pass appropriation, restricting and other important bills.

The resolution which council will get Monday points out the urgent need for immediate action to relieve a health menace and to eliminate a condition which greatly retards the growth and advancement of the metropolitan area.

Several times before threats of suits have been made against Atlanta for pollution of streams, and the city has taken every means in its power to pass legislation dealing with it. It is incumbent on the state, however, to pass enabling acts to empower the city or some other body to take the necessary steps to insure adequate and permanent solution of the problem, which Gilliam Tuesday said was the most urgent facing this locality.

"Fulton county and surrounding territory pay more than one-fourth of the total revenue of the state," Gilliam said in discussing the resolution. "This situation is almost unbearable. Something must be done to relieve present conditions. Atlanta faces damage suits, because the very lives of its citizens and those within an area of 50 miles are endangered."

"Some means could be found to begin work at once on the sewer problem, the work could be accomplished at a vast saving. In addition, present unemployment would be reduced, and the city would be bonded issue to aid in eliminating this health danger and at the same time reducing unemployment."

Text of the sewer committee resolution, which goes to the council floor Monday, follows:

"Whereas, the unsanitary condition now existing in the metropolitan area of Atlanta by badly polluted sewerage streams, is greatly retarding the health of the city, and greatly retarding its growth and advancement; and

"Whereas, this unsanitary condition is daily becoming worse; and

"Whereas, the city is being confronted with damage suits arising from the badly polluted sewerage streams;

"Therefore, be it resolved by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta that his excellency, the governor, be and is hereby respectfully requested to call a meeting of the general assembly of the state to enact such legislation that may be a means of coping with this situation; and

L. H. PINKUS QUITS COUNCIL CONTEST

Runner-Up Leaves Field to Gilliam; Only One Runover Remains.

Withdrawal Tuesday of L. H. Pinkus, runner-up in the primary against Ed A. Gilliam, incumbent, alderman from the twelfth ward, left only one ward race to be settled November 4, and for that contest Parks Rusk, runner-up against George W. Powell, for the thirteenth ward councilman post, must qualify by noon today.

Pinkus issued a statement thanking his friends for their support, but stating that he believes the best interests of the city will be served by eliminating additional political contests at the present time.

Powell, who received 321 votes in last Wednesday's primary, already has qualified. He received his first in a four-cornered contest, in which Rusk polled 306; W. C. Jenkins, incumbent, 207, and Steve R. Johnston 116.

Members of the democratic committee have set noon today as the deadline for those entitled to enter runovers.

Text of Pinkus' statement regarding his withdrawal follows:

"Believing that the best interests of the city would be served by eliminating additional political races at this time, I am withdrawing from the race for alderman from the twelfth ward. The assurances of support from my friends in this race are very highly appreciated, and I desire to thank each of them for their interest in my candidacy, but hardly feel that it will be of any benefit to Atlanta to force another election at this time, and for this reason I am withdrawing my name."

"I assure my opponent, Alderman Gilliam, of my full co-operation in constructive measures that will be of value to our city, and thank the election officials and newspapers for their fair treatment."

Jenkins issued a short statement thanking those who voted for him:

"I wish to take this opportunity to thank those who voted for me and who so loyally supported my candidacy."

Jenkins said it is with a great degree of gratification that I see the fine vote of confidence given my tenure even though I was unable to make as active a record as I wished because of business pressure. I shall always hold dear those fine memories of the spirit of loyalty and fidelity shown to me in my contest for office, and as a member of the general council."

Cadets o Accord Last Honor To Comrade Killed in Game

BY EDWARD J. NEIL.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 27.—

—Cadet Richard Binsley Sheridan Jr., killed in combat, came back to the United States Military Academy from his last football trip.

There was no massed corps of shouting gray to meet him, no hilarious parade of arm-clad cadets up the long hill to the barracks, no band blaring a welcome. Instead a hushed, picking a way slowly, after a long trip from New Haven, Conn., carried him to the post hospital at noon and left him there until time for chapel tomorrow.

His mates must muster then in the full dress costume of the West Point cadet, the smart gray with the cross of white across the chest, the tall "tar-bucket" helmets with the black plumes, rifles on their shoulders.

The corps will greet him then, looking down into his casket for the last time as it rests in the tiny Catholic chapel. After Father J. A. Langton, Catholic chaplain at the post, celebrates a solemn requiem mass, they will march with him for the last time to the cadet burial grounds in the hills that look down upon the massive stone austerity of the army post.

Cadet Sheridan, who died in the New Haven hospital yesterday from a broken neck suffered in the final quarter of the Army-Yale game Saturday, will be given the military funeral of a soldier.

The body will lie in state in the chapel from the time the mass ends until the funeral procession, which will start at 10 a. m. and the start of the funeral procession up the hills to the grounds where the General Guster, killed by the Spanish flu, lies in state.

BODIES OF FOUR MEN FOUND IN OCMULGEE

Deaths Caused by Accidental Drowning, Says Coroner's Verdict.

JACKSON, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Bodies of four men who started across the Ocmulgee river in a small boat early Sunday morning were recovered from the water today and a coroner's jury found they had met their death by accidental drowning.

Shortly before noon the bodies of Bernard Gaston, of East Point, Ga., a state highway department employee, and C. C. Smith, of Atlanta, a former state highway worker, were recovered. Gaston and Smith are white men. Late today the bodies of Willie Willis and Lucien Grimes, Jasper county negroes, were recovered.

The men were drowned above a Georgia Power Company dam which forms a big lake of the river. They started across the lake in a small skiff. An hour or more later the boat was found lodged against some driftwood.

The boat had some water in it but articles in the boat were in orderly arrangement. This at first led to the theory that four people may have had a party in the boat when it tipped to one side. The theory was expressed that an outboard motor at one end of the boat went out of order and that one of the men went to work on it, causing the boat to dip.

While some of those who lost their lives were good swimmers they wore heavy boots and hunting clothes.

Gaston was the son of former State Senator and Mrs. J. O. Gaston, of Jackson. He was 27 years old. Besides his parents, the widow and two children survive. Smith was married and Mrs. Smith is an employee of the state highway department.

Chatham Court Grants 41 Divorces First Day

SAYANNAH, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The first day of the October term divorce docket concluded a big day's business Tuesday.

Several juries empaneled to hear the cases worked with precision and for the day's total they granted 18 first verdicts and 23 second verdicts.

In two cases seeking removal of disabilities, the juries acted favorably. There were three cases dismissed in which first verdicts had been sought.

The full docket has 170 cases on it and is due to last three days.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR WILLIAM WILHOIT

MACON, Ga., Oct. 27.—Funeral services for William F. Wilhoit, prominent Warren county citizen, who died Monday at his home in Warren, were conducted in the Rose Hill cemetery here Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Wilhoit, a resident of Warren, was 65 years of age. He was a business and civic leader of that section and was well known throughout the state.

He was born September 16, 1865, in Weatherford, Texas. His parents moved to Warren the following year. From 1880 to 1894 Mr. Wilhoit was owner and editor of the Warren Citizen, one of the state's leading weekly newspapers.

In 1901 he became connected with the Southern Cotton Oil Company, with headquarters in Macon, served with this firm until 1908, when he accepted a position with the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, in Atlanta. In 1914 Mr. Wilhoit joined the firm of the American Agricultural Company in Atlanta, but retired in 1921 because of ill health.

Mr. Wilhoit was secretary of the Warren Kiwanis Club until three months ago, when his illness forced him to withdraw from all civic activities.

Mr. Wilhoit is survived by his wife, Virginia Hill Wilhoit; four sons, Lloyd, Wilhoit, advertising manager of Davidson-Paxon Company in Atlanta and formerly city editor of The Atlanta Constitution; Jud T. Wilhoit, former state legislator, who recently was named a member of the state highway board; Frank E. Wilhoit, treasurer of the American Davidson-Paxon Company, Atlanta; and Bernard Wilhoit, a member of the state highway board; Frank E. Wilhoit, treasurer of the American Davidson-Paxon Company, Atlanta; and Bernard Wilhoit, a member of the state highway board.

Reports were heard from Frank E. Wilhoit, treasurer of the American Davidson-Paxon Company, Atlanta; and Bernard Wilhoit, a member of the state highway board.

A. M. E. CONFERENCE WILL OPEN TODAY

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Oct. 27.—The first of a series of eight conferences which are conducted annually in Georgia by the sixth Episcopal district of the A. M. E. church opens here Wednesday with William Alfred Fountain, bishop of the district, presiding. This meeting is known as the South Georgia conference.

This conference is comprised of six presiding elders in as many districts. The presiding elders are: Dr. J. L. Lowery, Valdosta district; Dr. J. H. Garrison, Quitman district; Dr. J. G. Hannon, Bainbridge district; Dr. W. M. Murren, Moultrie district; Dr. D. W. Murren, Moultrie district; Dr. A. R. Easter.

These presiding elders hear district reports from pastors here and are completing the sixth annual examinations of the first, second, third and fourth-year classes to come before the bishop and conference Wednesday.

The pastors composing this conference are Dr. C. Johnson, Thomasville; Dr. J. R. Gardner, Valdosta; Dr. J. R. Jackson, Bainbridge; Dr. J. H. Garrison, Quitman; Dr. J. G. Hannon, Bainbridge; Dr. W. M. Murren, Moultrie; Dr. D. W. Murren, Moultrie; Dr. A. R. Easter.

Delegates will be named in each conference to the state to represent Georgia at the general conference to be held in Cleveland next May.

CAPTAIN ELLIS TALKS AT MACON MEETING

MACON, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—"Had it not been for the sea power of France there would have been no Yorktown," said Captain Hayne Ellis, director of the naval intelligence department, in an address before the Macon Exchange Club here Tuesday on navy day. "Therefore," he added, "there would have been no United States, and Georgia probably would have been hooked up with Florida under Spain."

The presence of the French fleet, idly lying in harbor, he said, prevented the British ships from reaching Yorktown with troops and ammunition.

"But as a matter of fact it was not Cornwallis who surrendered at Yorktown," said Captain Ellis. "It really was an Irishman named O'Hara or something like that."

Captain Ellis was here at his own home on a leave of absence. He expressed a view that "getting down to work" will do more toward relieving depression than anything else.

17-Year-Old Florida Boy Sentenced as Distiller

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 27.—(AP)—George Graham Mott, 17, was sentenced today to a year and a day term in federal school for boys, Washington, D. C., today on a plea of guilty in federal court to a charge of operating a still west of West Palm Beach.

STATE MASONS OPEN MACON CONVENTION

New Officers To Be Elected at Concluding Session Today.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Officers for the Grand Lodge of Georgia, Free and Accepted Masons, will be elected in the final session of the 145th annual communication at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Joe A. Moore, Milledgeville, deputy grand master, is in line to succeed W. G. Meador, Gainesville, as grand master. It is customary in the lodge that each officer is to advance in rank.

The office of grand tyler, at present filled by C. J. Owens, Newnan, will be occupied by a person who has not formerly been an officer of the Grand Lodge.

A. D. Powers, Woodstock, was elected a member of the board of trustees of the Masonic Home here, to succeed Joe P. Bowden, Adairsville, and Zack Arnold, Fort Gaines, was elected to succeed himself in the opening session of the convention today.

Mr. Bowden, who has acted as chairman of the board, declined reelection. Mr. Arnold, who has been vice chairman, succeeded Mr. Bowden as chairman. The trustees made their annual report and praised the work of Harrison Daugherty, superintendent of the home.

G. Meador, Gainesville, grand master of the Grand Lodge, made his annual report after the convention had been opened with a prayer and short talk by Rev. Gilbert Dobbie, Carrollton, grand chaplain. Meador said the individual lodges and the Grand Lodge had made progress during the past year and thanked each member for his co-operation.

A delegation from the Grand Lodge of Louisiana was introduced, and each member made a short talk. The Louisiana officials were E. E. Skyles, grand master of the Grand Lodge; D. Haas Jr., Milton W. Boylan and E. J. Herman.

Memorial services were read for W. G. England, Cedarhurst, and A. G. Miller, Macon, who died during the past year. The services were made by Dr. J. D. Hambrick, Cedarhurst, and F. O. Miller, Macon.

Reports were heard from Frank F. Baker, Macon, secretary; J. H. Johnson, Columbus, treasurer; E. H. Johnson, Columbus, chairman of the finance committee; J. H. Johnson, Columbus, chairman of the committee on appeals and grievances, and from several others.

The report of the secretary showed the Grand Lodge has a total of approximately 62,000 members, which is a record for the sixth annual conference. The attendance at the convention, however, was greater than it has been for the past several years, he said.

Tuesday night the grand lodge of the Grand Lodge, the trustees of the home and the visitors from Louisiana were entertained with a home products dinner at the Masonic Home.

The final session of the convention will open at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and is scheduled to adjourn at noon, although it is probable the session will continue several hours to complete unfinished business.

WOODMEN AT MEIGS TO HOLD INITIATION

MEIGS, Ga., Oct. 27.—A large group of candidates will be initiated Wednesday into the recently organized Woodmen of the World lodge, No. 10, at Meigs. The degree team from Sylvester will have charge of the work of initiation, and State Manager James H. Wood, of the Modern Woodmen lodge at Meigs, will address the candidates. The lodge is located in the town of Meigs.

State Deaths and Funerals

ROBERT H. BRISON. HOLLAND, Ga., Oct. 27.—Robert H. Brison, 80, died at his home here after a short illness. Mr. Brison was born and lived his entire life in the same house on a farm in Holland station. He was widely known.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from the New Hope Baptist church at Holland. The Rev. J. Ed Smith and the choir officiating. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Brison is a son, Rufus Brison, of Holland; a daughter, Mrs. Rose Clark, of Honolulu, Hawaii; three half-sisters, Mrs. Ellen Jordan, Mrs. Emma House and Mrs. John Hall, of Holland.

MRS. WARREN CHUNN. WOODBURY, Ga., Oct. 27.—Funeral services were held Monday from the Woodbury Baptist church for Mrs. Warren Chunn, 86, who died at her home near Woodbury Sunday night.

She is survived by three sons, Joe, Ed and Clark Chunn, all of Woodbury; one sister, Mrs. Ada Huff of Los Angeles, Cal.; one brother, William Matthews, Jackson, Ga.; 11 grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Charles H. German conducted the services. Interment was in city cemetery.

ALEX E. GRAVES. USADILLA, Ga., Oct. 27.—Funeral services for Alex E. Graves, 86, of Lakeland, Fla., were held from the Usadilla Methodist church and interment followed in Walnut Hill cemetery here. He died at the home of his son, L. E. Graves, in Lakeland, where he made his home, following a fall in a house he suffered.

Mr. Graves was born and reared in Houston county, Georgia, and later came to Usadilla, where he lived for many years. He was a life-long member of the Methodist church and the builder was the building of the Methodist church in Usadilla. He was twice married. Three children survive him: A. son, L. E. Graves, of Lakeland, Fla.; two daughters, one of Birmingham, Ala. and the other, Mrs. J. R. Lockerman, Akron, Ohio.

J. CARTLEDGE HUIE. LYERLY, Ga., Oct. 27.—J. Cartledge Huie, 74, former citizen of Lyerly, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Mosteller, in Gadsden, Ala.

Mr. Huie was a son of James Huie and Mrs. Huie, pioneers of Chattahoochee county. He was a member of Walnut Grove Presbyterian church and had been an elder in that church for more than 30 years. He died at the age of 74. He has lived with his only daughter in Gadsden.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Lyerly Methodist church. His former pastor, the Rev. H. H. Hays, of Birmingham, presided by the Rev. J. C. Peltico, of Milledgeville. Burial was in the family lot in Lyerly cemetery.

Surviving are two children, Mrs. J. D. Mosteller and J. E. Huie, of Gadsden; one brother, James Huie, of Bogota, Texas; and one sister, Mrs. Emma Strain, of Dallas, Texas.

Spirit of Reconstruction Days Needed in Georgia, Says Melton

DUBLIN, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Declaring that Georgia would stage an immediate comeback if the men and women of today possessed "one bit of the stamina, loyalty, determination and ability" of the men and women who brought the state out of chaos following the War Between the States, Quinby Melton, state command of the American Legion, spoke to the Georgia convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy here tonight.

Commander Melton, who also is editor of the Griffin Daily News, said "even the greatest pessimist of today cannot imagine Georgia in the fix she was in at the close of the War Between the States and during the reconstruction period. If we think we are in a depression now, we should study conditions in this state of ours a few years ago," he added.

"When the Georgia soldier turned his back on Appomattox and started his weary way homeward he had no idea of the hardships he was to face. Arriving home he found all swept away. Home was gone, slaves set free, farms were overgrown with weeds, stock had been stolen. His credit was gone and the money with which he had been paid was no good. Certainly it was never a time when it was excusable for a man to 'quit' it was then.

"But when he arrived home he found one thing of which even war could not rob him. The affection and devotion of the girl he left behind was unchanged. She was just as confident in the ability of her man as she was the day he marched away to war.

"So facing the future with the love of that dear woman to spur him on, Georgia soldier fought and won his greatest economic battle. One must realize that the north, fanned into hatred by political demagogues, had never joined the great trek south into Georgia and other southern states to put down the 'rebellion.' These carpetbaggers and scoundrels were backed up by northern bayonets in the hands of negro soldiers. Per deluded negroes, who a short while before had been happy, careless slaves on the plantations of their 'master' were now being driven to the streets and highways drunk on Yankee booze and the promise of 40 acres and a mule.

"I would have been much easier for the Confederate soldier to have loaded what little he had left into a wagon and taking that dear family of his to some other part of the world to the west and a 'new start,' but our grandfathers and fathers were not quitters. They loved Georgia and were determined that never should Georgia culture be made subservient to the rule of the carpetbagger and the scalawag.

"The reconstruction period was the backwash of the War Between the States just as the present 'depression' is the backwash of the World War. We of today are going through our reconstruction days but if we men have one whit of loyalty, devotion, determination, spunk and fighting spirit of our grandfathers, and if the women of today will have one bit of the faith in and the love for, the men of today that their grandmothers had for and in their grandfathers, then Georgia will win out and good times are just around the corner."

Commander Melton said the Daughters of the Confederacy was the greatest organization of its kind the world has ever known. If it were not for your unselfish service many of the deliberate lies that were circulated at the close of the war might now be accepted as the truth. For falsehoods unchallenged finally are accepted as the truth.

"It is not for your organization that I speak, but for the 'War Between the States,' he said. "The state Legion commander said the world has ever known. If it were not for your unselfish service many of the deliberate lies that were circulated at the close of the war might now be accepted as the truth. For falsehoods unchallenged finally are accepted as the truth.

Delegates registered this afternoon and the executive board of the organization held a meeting shortly afterward. The opening session began at 8 p. m. It was followed by a reception tonight by the theme chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. A press breakfast is the first event of the day's program. Business sessions will be held morning and afternoon. At noon the delegates will attend a luncheon at the home of Mrs. W. F. Garrison, as guests of the John Laurens chapter, U. D. C. A barbecue will be given the visitors tomorrow afternoon by the Dublin Lions Club. Another business session will be held tomorrow night. The convention will continue through Thursday.

Kingston Child Killed By Accidental Shot

KINGSTON, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A rifle, which he had placed between his legs while he ate peanuts, was accidentally discharged Monday causing instant death to Joe Ben Jolly, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Jolly.

The accident occurred at the home of the youth's aunt, Mrs. Ora Branson. The youth had told his aunt he was going to kill a bird and had stopped on the steps of the house to eat the nuts. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

STATE RESTS CASE IN TRIAL OF HADEN

MACON, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The prosecution Tuesday which later was case against Charles R. Haden, 23, after presenting a number of witnesses, including an 18-year-old girl, who identified the defendant as the one of two men she charges attacked her after forcing her companion to leave her with her abductors.

The girl took the stand at noon and swore that the defendant had come to her knowledge of her as the result of an attack. A physician, Dr. J. Emory Clay, said her condition immediately following the crime was such that he could not determine if this was true.

The crime was committed on August 25 and two deputy sheriffs testified that it occurred within Bibb county. The testimony of the officers was regarded by officials as an attempt by the state to forestall any attempt of the defense to claim lack of jurisdiction.

The girl described how two white men stopped her and her companion, J. H. Spratlin Jr., as they drove along the Highway 1 highway and forced Spratlin to leave the car. She said Haden was one of the pair and that they forced her to accompany them as they drove away in Spratlin's car, leaving their own automobile on the highway. She said they held her prisoner for two hours.

W. M. Weaver Jr. told the jury that the defendant and another man stopped his automobile earlier in the evening as they were driving near the business district here and that he and a girl companion were forced to give up their car, which was later abandoned by the men at the place where Spratlin's car and the girl were driven away.

Spratlin's testimony as to the hold-up and abduction was almost identical with that of the girl.

The trial began Monday and completion of the jury was made early today. Haden is expected to take the stand when court opens tomorrow. Ross Hatcher, also indicted in connection with the attack, will be tried at the conclusion of Haden's trial.

The girl related details of the evening from the time of the holdup of Spratlin's car to her return after being held captive.

$2,300 Game of Old Sayings Produces Smiles and Cash

All Back Pictures Reprinted; Free List of 2,000 Proverbs Offered Again.

Proverbs are the language of the gods.—Vico.

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR.

Many smiles probably will be involved by picture No. 50 in The Constitution's $2,300 game of old sayings. The gentleman with the bandaged head seems to be seeking solace in music—which might point to the solution. Who can tell?

With the publication today of picture No. 50, followers of this game are well beyond the halfway mark in their march toward the 30 liberal cash prizes. The road is becoming smoother. There are fewer obstacles in the form of difficult pictures.

Contestants who have lost, misplaced or mutilated any of their pictures are reminded again that The Constitution has reprinted all of the pictures, up to date, and they are available at any time. These pictures, on smooth white paper that will take pen and ink without blurring, are 5 cents apiece singly—the regular price of the individual issue of The Constitution in which each was originally published. Any eight pictures may be had for 30 cents, and pictures from No. 1 to No. 40, inclusive, for $1.25. The reprints will also come in handy for contestants who decide to send in more than one set of pictures and answers, which is allowed. On the second or additional sets answers may be changed.

Contestants who have not already done so should call at The Constitution or send 2-cent stamp for the helpful list of 2,000 proverbs. This list, which also has the first 15 pictures, provides real aid in finding correct answers.

Questions and Answers

Yes, You May.

Question: "Anent the question, 'may pictures and coupons be cut apart?' The paragraph, 'The correct answers, etc., appears between coupons and pictures representing proverbs Nos. 17 and 18. This detracts from the appearance. May an exception be made on these two so that the paragraphs may be taken out and coupons attached directly to the pictures?' I think your Questions and Answers' column is splendid. I've had quite a great deal of worthwhile information and suggestions from your answers to others' questions. The contest has afforded me much pleasure, and I hope you'll start another soon after this one ends. Mrs. F. F. W., Atlanta."

Not Shown. Question: Will you please tell me if in picture No. 45 the men on either edge of the board are kings or just plain men that have been jumped? C. K. M.

Answer: From this drawing one cannot tell whether any of the men are kings.

Illustrates One. Question: "Are the pictures drawn to illustrate more than one proverb? E. T. C." Answer: No. Each picture of the series of 50 represents but one proverb, although, at first glance, there may be others that apparently fit. Two or more proverbs of different meanings will not apply to one picture. Contestants who are in doubt about their accuracy may submit more than one set of pictures and answers, and thus have more than one opportunity of winning a prize.

It's for Convenience. Question: "Is it necessary to buy the book 'Proverbs of All Ages?' Mrs. D. S. G."

Answer: No. The correct answers for the entire series of 50 pictures may be found by consulting the free list of 2,000 proverbs and recalling proverbs from memory, or by consulting various other books on the subject of proverbs. However, the book "Proverbs of All Ages" is the only standard proverb work that is positively guaranteed to contain all of the correct answers, and it greatly simplifies the finding of solutions. The price of "Proverbs of All Ages" is 50 cents, whereas most other reference books on the subject of proverbs sell for $5 or more. At the suggestion of contestants, and by arrangement with the publisher, "Proverbs of All Ages" was placed on sale some weeks ago. It can be had by calling at the office of The Constitution, or by mail when 4 cents extra for postage is included with orders.

They Get Easier. Question: "Do the proverb pictures get harder toward the close of the contest? Mrs. T. Y. F."

Answer: No. The pictures that make up the last half of the series will be more easily solved than the others. Aren't you glad?

Anonymous letters from contestants who ask interesting questions frequently cannot, because of limited space, be answered in this column. Contestants can only be assured of a reply when they sign their names and addresses. Only their initials will be used if their questions are answered here.

State Exhibiting Georgia Sea Food To Increase Trade

Beginning a campaign to stimulate a consumer demand in Atlanta for Georgia-grown sea food, the state department of game and fish Tuesday exhibited in the farmers' market of Sears, Roebuck and Company some of the choicest shrimp, clams, oysters and fish taken from Georgia waters. Approximately 500 Atlanta housewives saw the exhibit, which was in charge of Tidewater Commissioner Charles S. Arnou, of Brunswick.

"Georgia oysters are the purest to be found anywhere on our coast," Commissioner Peter C. Twy, who spent some time at the exhibit, said, "and they have the most delightful flavor. I believe the exhibit recently shown in the increased use of Georgia products will materially boost the oyster industry."

Young women from Commissioner Twy's office assisted in displaying the exhibit, which included some of the largest clams found anywhere. The fish exhibit included deep water bass, flounder, trout and other specimens.

SOUTHERN GOVERNORS TO CONVEY PARK LANDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—Governors O. Max Gardner, North Carolina, and Henry H. Horton, of Tennessee, will convey to Secretary Wilbur on Monday title to 170,000 acres of land for inclusion in the Great Smoky Mountains National park.

The trip of the two governors will be the second of this nature. On February 6, 1930, they presented deeds to 158,799 acres in the Great Smoky area.

With the lands to be transferred next Monday, the total in the hands of the government will be approximately 330,000 acres, about 100,000 acres short of the total minimum acreage.

CITROEN ABANDONS MOTOR CARTEL PLANS

ABOARD ISLE DE FRANCE, AT SEA, Oct. 27.—(P)—Andre Citroen, the French "Ford," who is returning from America after a flying visit to Detroit, announced tonight that he had been forced to abandon plans for a world-wide agreement on motor production because Henry Ford refused to join in the movement.

"A cartel without Ford would be useless," he explained, "and hence we are forced to continue our present wasteful, extravagant methods in spite of the depression."

SECOND TRIAL SLATED IN MEXICANS' DEATHS

ARDMORE, Okla., Oct. 27.—(P)—A second murder trial in connection with the slayings of Emilio Cortes Rubio, young kinsman of the president of Mexico, and his student comrade, Manuel Garcia Gomez, was announced today for November 19.

County Attorney Marvin Shilling said William Guess and Cecil Crosby, former deputy sheriffs, would be placed on trial at that time for the killing of Gomez.

Guess was acquitted of killing Cortes Rubio, but the defendant has been tried for the Gomez slaying. The youths, motoring to Mexico from American colleges, were shot to death here in June after Guess and Crosby had attempted to interrogate them. Guess, who took full responsibility for the actual shooting, confronted the boys threatened him with pistols.

HURLEY SEEN AS CHOICE FOR VICE PRESIDENCY

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 27.—(P)—Theodore Roosevelt, governor of Porto Rico, said here today that he expected Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley to be the republican nominee for vice president next year.

Governor Roosevelt stopped here for a short time en route by air from New York to Porto Rico.

Don't let this picture "stump" you. If you cannot recall the old saying that fits it, or any of the other pictures of the series, call at the office of The Constitution and obtain one of the helpful and valuable reference lists of 2,000 proverbs. Or a copy of this interesting list may be had by mail by writing to the Proverb Editor, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and enclosing a two-cent stamp for return postage.

Instructions. The total prize money to be awarded Proverb Contest entrants is $2,300. The first prize is $1,000; the second, $500; the third, $250; the fourth, $100, and the fifth, $50. The supplemental prizes consist of ten prizes of $25 each and fifteen prizes of $10 each. There is no charge to take part in the contest and it is not necessary for contestants to register. There are no subscriptions to get, and nonsubscribers are invited to take part. There will be no tie-breaking series of pictures and no extra work will be required. The correct answers are what count. The proverb pictures and answers are not to be submitted until all of the pictures have been published. Three competent and impartial judges, not employed by The Constitution, will decide the winners.

'Spend, Save, Give' Is Keynote Of Penny-a-Meal Club Appeal

Spend, save, give. The trilogy of words has become the keynote of the Atlanta Penny-a-Meal Club campaign for funds to feed the jobless of the city this winter.

Mrs. Thomas K. Glenn, originator of the "Penny-a-Meal" movement which has spread over the United States, Tuesday called attention to a recent radio talk by Mrs. Ida Bailey Allen, in which she urged spending, but also advocated "saving to give." "We all can give our three pennies a day," Mrs. Glenn said, "and still remain within the family budget." Mrs. Glenn reiterated the statement that business must go on as usual and that to do so people must spend as usual.

130,152 Working Here in April, '30 Final Census Bureau Figures Show

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—A total of 130,152 persons 10 years of age and older were found to be employed in Atlanta in April, 1930, at the time of the 1930 national enumeration, according to final figures published by the bureau of the census. This figure, of course, has no bearing on the present situation, which is very largely changed, due to nationwide economic conditions.

The bureau's report is based on the old limits of the city and not the new greater Atlanta charter, which was denied by the bureau as a basis for computing the city's 1930 population.

The number of persons found to occupy gainful positions represents 48.1 per cent of the population of the city in the old boundaries, 230,368, and 57.8 per cent of the same population 10 years old and over. By way of comparison, the city had 98,952 gainful workers in 1920.

Similar figures announced for the state at large today also revealed that a total of 1,162,158 persons in Georgia 10 years old and more were employed in 1930, constituting 40 per cent of the entire population and 51.9 per cent of the state's population 10 years of age and older. In 1920, the year of the former national enumeration, the number of gainful workers in Georgia was somewhat less, 1,129,137 or only 39 per cent of the total.

Male Gainful Workers. Of the gainful workers of Atlanta in 1930, 83,028, or 63.8 per cent were males and 47,124 or 36.2 per cent were females. The male gainful workers formed 79.9 per cent of all males 10 years old and over in 1930 as compared with 84.4 per cent in 1920, while the female gainful workers formed 38.9 per cent of all females 10 years old and over in 1930 as compared with 37.1 per cent in 1920.

Distributed by color and nativity, 76,822, or 50 per cent of the total gainful workers of Atlanta were native white; 2,684 or 2.1 per cent were foreign-born white; 50,617, or 38.9 per cent were negro; and 29 were of other races.

Distributed by years of age, 309 of the total gainful workers were 10 to 13; 1,340, or 1 per cent, were 14 or 15; 3,767, or 2.9 per cent, were 16 or 17; 6,254, or 5 per cent, were 18 or 19; 22,348, or 17.2 per cent, were 20 to 24; 37,941, or 29.2 per cent, were 25 to 34; 28,673, or 22 per cent, were 35 to 44; 18,228, or 14 per cent, were 45 to 54; 8,015, or 6.2 per cent, were 55 to 64; 2,455, or 1.9 per cent, were 65 to 74; and 413 were 75 or over. In 1920 there were 518 workers 10 to 13 years old; 1,816 workers 14 or 15; and 2,433 workers 65 and over.

More Single Workers. Of the 46,923 female gainful workers 15 years old and over, 17,838, or 38 per cent, were single (including those with marital condition not reported); 17,324, or 36.9 per cent, were married; and 11,761, or 25.1 per cent, were widowed or divorced. The proportion of married women gainfully occupied was 29.1 per cent in 1930 as compared with 25 per cent in 1920.

Of the gainful workers of Georgia in 1930, 850,219, or 73.2 per cent, were males and 311,939, or 26.8 per cent, were females. The male gainful workers formed 77.4 per cent of all males 10 years old and over in 1930 as compared with 78.6 per cent in 1920, while the female gainful workers formed 27.4 per cent of all females

FRENCH SEEK TO BUY U. S. WHEAT, COTTON

Laval Aide Confers With Bankers on Details of Proposed Purchase.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—Large stocks of American wheat and cotton probably will be sold in France if Pierre Du Pasquier's talks with New York bankers are successful. M. Du Pasquier, a member of Premier Laval's party who is staying behind, is talking over the details with the financiers. They concern bankers' acceptances.

Contrary to market reports, France has bought no wheat or cotton from the farm board. Chairman Stone shook his head today and smilingly said:

"I only wish it were true that France has bought some of our supplies."

Sitting down for an intimate chat, he explained M. Du Pasquier's call at the board Saturday and his visit in New York now.

French millers and textile manufacturers have found their normal business transactions complicated by Great Britain's abandonment of the gold standard, he said. Formerly London bankers handled two-thirds and New York bankers one-third of their acceptances—bills of sale which banks accept and endorse.

Now M. Du Pasquier wants New York bankers to handle this and extend the customary time from 30 and 90 days to 12 months. This, Stone observed, would allow time for adjustment of international finance.

The French government is not concerned in these conversations. An possible sales of American product would be directly to French private trade, Stone said.

CREW IS RESCUED AS FERTIGHER SINKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(P)—The 140-foot sound freighter City of Stamford collided with a scow off Welfare island this morning and sank in the East river. The crew of 15 men were taken off the sinking freighter by river craft. There were no passengers.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsillitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

...Will Stop Any Headache in 3 MINUTES

Realizing that no one drug can conquer all headaches, as they come from so many causes, a North Carolina druggist developed a combination of several ingredients which function together, giving immediate, complete and safe relief for any kind of a headache, neuralgic, sciatic or rheumatic pain, and quelling the nerves without depression or bad after effects.

This combination of pain-relieving ingredients, so efficient for women also at special times, may be found at any drug store or soda fountain under the name "B-C" (10c and 25c) ready for use in easing pains and quieting nerves in three minutes. "B-C" is the most amazing preparation of its kind ever discovered and is guaranteed harmless.

Resolved by all Mothers

Progressive mothers everywhere are making this resolution for the sake of their children:

NO COLDS THIS WINTER

Here is the way to prevent colds from taking hold. At the first sign of sneezing or coughing—quick—put a little Mentholatum in the nostrils. If you act in time the camphor, menthol, and other ingredients in Mentholatum will check the cold at the very start. In jars and tubes, 30c. Three times as much in large jars, for 60c.

DEMURRER OFFERED IN ELLIS, SMITH TRIAL

Ed O. Ellis and W. Clyde Smith, former members of the Floyd Woodward bunco ring, were called to trial in federal district court Tuesday afternoon on charges of using the mails to defraud Roy E. Martin, Columbus theater man, of $50,000 through a fake rick track tip system. The case will be continued this morning before Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

When the case was called a demurrer was offered by the defense stating that the allegations that the mails were used in a fraud were not shown in the indictment. Jurymen were excused until 10 o'clock this morning and hearing on the demurrer was set over until this morning. Attorneys for Ellis made a verbal motion that his case be continued until he is released from the county chain gang, where he is serving a sentence on the old bunco conviction.

Ellis is represented by the law firm of Branch and Howard while Smith is being defended by Mark Bolding, Joe Ewing and Smith's own son, W. G. Smith, attorney from Raleigh, N. C. Assistant District Attorney Hal Lindsay is prosecuting the case.

Life of Thomas A. Edison

BY DAVID WILSON.

(Copyright for The Constitution and the N. A. A. Inc.)

Chapter X.

New Yorkers Amazed by New Light

The talking machine sprang fully developed from Thomas Edison's inventive genius, but in nearly all of his other inventions it was laborious trial-and-error that led to success. The electric light is a startling example of his method of work.

After a carbonized cotton thread which burned in vacuum bulb for 40 hours had proved that incandescent lighting was possible, Edison set to work to find the best available material from which to make the carbon.

He had only general ideas on the kind of material to use; he was willing to try anything. Paper, cardboard, bamboo, lampwick, twine, tar-soaked thread, coconut hair, spruce, boxwood, hickory, cedar, maple, flax, cord punk, grasses, canes—some 6,000 substances were tried.

Bamboo was finally chosen as the best material, although by that time highly perishable lamps made of carbonized paperboard were being manufactured for experimental use.

Widespread Search. With bamboo chosen, Edison started a series of expeditions which lasted more than 10 years and covered South America, Japan, India and the West Indies, seeking a still better bamboo than he had.

A whole plantation in Japan was turned over to producing a particular type of bamboo. Not until Edison started experimenting with the production of rubber from weeds in his last years were such a multitude of plants sacrificed in the hunt for perfection.

But the electric light could not wait for all that. Edison had a fairly satisfactory filament; he was content for the time being.

Almost casually, in time taken off from the filament experiments, he had invented a new type of dynamo, which instead of the 40 per cent efficiency of the best type then in use, yielded 96 per cent efficiency. It was ready to light his new type bulbs.

Switches, plug sockets, underground conduits, dozens of devices for which there had never been need before, likewise were devised as necessity arose. A lighting circuit was established in Menlo Park, N. J. New York began to be interested. A demonstration was called for.

Edison strung 700 lights among the trees of Menlo Park, and New York went to see—aldermen, sightseers, capitalists. It was a New Year's Eve, cold and windy, but the travelers on special trains who had gone, only half believing, to see this new wonder, were too overcome to notice.

Another Triumph.

It was another triumph, comparable to that scored with the first demonstrations of the talking machine. But though it climaxed more than a year of work which would break down any ordinary group of men, Edison and the hundred laboratory assistants he then employed were only beginning their labors.

Edison could, and did, put out individual lighting systems for factories or expositions, operated from individual dynamos. One plant was sent to Paris for the 1881 exposition, and keenly interested Europe in electric light. That was something, but not enough. Only a central power generating station in the middle of New York city would satisfy the inventor, and he enlisted capital to that end.

The work done in 1880, 1881 and 1882 is almost inconceivable.

In 1880, Edison received 60 patents; in 1881, 80; in 1882, 97. They were his most prolific years. Not all of the patents, to be sure, had to do directly with electric lights; for relaxation in spare time Edison tossed off such little items as the electric railway, foundation for all trolley and subway and interurban systems today; the magnetic ore separator, and a dozen or so other independent inventions. But for the most part, those were the electric light years.

To obtain an accurate perspective on Edison's work in those years, when he proved himself an engineer of rare ability, it must be remembered that despite all his laboratory work and his ability to find machines and chemicals and forces to do what he wanted to have done, Edison was uneducated. To the day of his death he probably could not have passed any civil service engineering examination. He had no mathematics at all, and was rather proud of that.

Good Guesses.

He could, as he himself said over and over again, guess most things more accurately than experts could calculate them; but he could prove his guesses right only by experimentation.

In later years, as a witness in a

RADIO CITY IDEA IMPRESSES EUROPE

S. S. EUROPE, Oct. 27.—(AP)—S. L. Rochafel (Rox), returning home from an inspection of European radio and theater life, said today that plans for Radio City far surpassed anything he had seen abroad.

The director of theatrical productions for the Rockefeller enterprises said the experience gleaned on the tour would not materially alter his entertainment ideas but would broaden their purpose—for "Radio City must be international in scope."

"We had a cordial reception everywhere," he continued, "and great interest was aroused in these times to progressive Europeans, particularly throughout Germany, France and England. Production activity was greatest in England. Throughout Europe all theaters are doing a big business."

ARTIST TO EXHIBIT AT HIGH MUSEUM

William van Dresser, portrait artist of New York and Palm Beach, will open his exhibition of portraits in charcoal, sanguine and pastel Sunday at High Museum of Art, a tea sponsored by the Atlanta Junior League. With the exception of his annual winter showing at Palm Beach, Atlanta is the only city in the south to view the work of the artist.

Mr. van Dresser, a southerner, born in Memphis, is reputed to have drawn portraits of a greater number of prominent people than any other living artist. A demonstration of his work will be given November 8 at which time subject will be selected from the audience for a complete portrait.

Lakewood Heights Pair Wed in Grocery Store

Jack Carroll and Miss Ruby Jones, both of Lakewood Heights, Monday afternoon were married in the Lettwich grocery store, Jonesboro road and Lakewood Heights, and their friends were so pepped up over the wedding that they bore all of the costs. H. G. Wood, Carroll's employer in a shoe repair shop, bought the marriage license, and the Lettwich grocery store paid the preacher and furnished the couple with enough groceries to last during the honeymoon. The Rev. O. L. Kelley, of the Lakewood Heights Methodist church, performed the ceremony.

REV. MONCRIEF SCORED FOR ATTACK ON MAYOR

J. Frazer Marsh Says "Such Remarks Could Only Arise From Ignorance."

The Rev. Adiel J. Moncrief, pastor of the Oakland City Baptist church, who attacked Mayor James L. Key for his anti-prohibition utterances in a sermon Sunday, Tuesday was the object of a heated attack by J. Frazer Marsh, 613 Grand building, a member of Key's Sunday school class, which meets at the Capitol theater.

"If you were correctly quoted, I would like to inform you that such remarks could only arise from ignorance, or a deliberate desire to mislead your flock and the public," Marsh said in a letter he wrote Moncrief.

Text of Marsh's letter to Moncrief follows:

"Dear Sir: 'The Atlanta Constitution of Monday morning quotes you as saying that Mayor Key's 'noisy expostulations, his silliness with the Imps of Hell and his Bible class are more than local scandals.'"

"If you are quoted correctly, I would like to inform you that such remarks could only arise from ignorance, or a deliberate desire to mislead your flock and the public."

"My wife, a member of the First Baptist church, and myself are in the habit of attending, and are members of the Key Bible class and we have no apologies to make to anyone for our action. We hear as good Bible teachings as one could wish to listen to and our teacher exacts no pay for what he is doing.

"I feel that our teacher is fully capable of taking care of his flock and if you will devote your attention to those under your care and not attempt to dictate what the Key Bible class shall say and do, you will be doing well."

"Contributions made to the Key Bible class go to the support of needy families. Can you say the same of your church?"

"I have no doubt that there are quite a few who envy the success with which the Key Bible class is meeting, and it is only natural that we should expect the criticism, spleen and denunciations of some dictatorial demagogues, bigots and the like, who expect people to give up all freedom of thought, all honest convictions and hypocritically follow their lead."

"Few have the fortitude of soul to honor a friend's success without a touch of envy."

"Very truly,
J. FRAZER MARSH,
"613 Grand building."

IRA EAKER TO WED AFTER RECORD FLIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Captain Ira Eaker, who sped to fame on the wings of army airplanes, plans to wed Miss Ruth Huff Apperson, 23 years old, of Washington, D. C.

Poised now at Burbank, Cal., awaiting favorable weather for an assault upon the transcontinental record held by James H. "Jimmy" Doolittle, Eaker will be married soon after the flight. Announcement of the engagement was made today by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Huff Apperson. Miss Apperson is a teacher in the Washington School for Secretaries.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY LOW IN ACCIDENT RECORD

Manufacture of textile products was the third safest of the 28 major industries in the United States in 1930, according to T. M. Forbes, secretary of the Cotton Manufacturers Association of Georgia, who quoted figures furnished by the National Safety Council. Only the cement and laundry groups had a lower accident frequency rate.

The accident frequency rate, Mr. Forbes said, in the textile industry (per million hours of exposure) was 0.25, as compared with an average of 18.47 for all industries last year.

Let's talk Straight from the Shoulder

WHAT'S the net of this cigarette question? Let's lay the facts face up.

What you want in a cigarette is taste. You want mildness... smoothness... and pleasure when you smoke.

You rule out harshness, bitterness and bite.

All right then... get this straight.

IT'S no secret that Chesterfield pays top prices... yes, and a premium for the ripest, mellowest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows.

But it makes Chesterfields taste better and smoke smoother... and that to us is a justifiable extravagance.

The men who buy Chesterfield tobacco are experts in the art of judging and selecting this quality leaf.

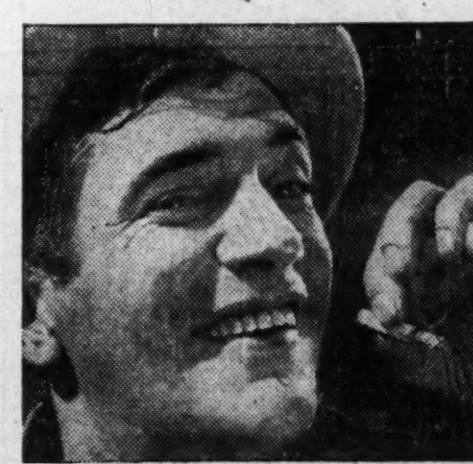

The men who do the curing and conditioning are specialists, too... carefully trained in handling these fine tobaccos.

IN BLENDING, Chesterfields are also different.

Instead of merely mixing the tobaccos together... we cross-blend them. It's like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco—a tobacco with greater smoothness, more mildness, and a more pleasing aroma. That's how we get that Chesterfield flavor. Milder... riper... mellow.

What about cigarette paper?... That's part of the story, too. Only the best that's made—the purest and finest—is good enough for Chesterfield.

Pick up a package. Note its clean appearance... free from heavy inks. And it's moisture-proof.

And three big factories at Richmond, Durham and San Francisco—operating under the strictest sanitary standards—rush them fresh to you.

Good... they've got to be good. Because they're made that way.

And most important of all... you can taste this goodness in the cigarette. You can tell it in the smoke.

Light up, Mister! Try Chesterfield.

Let the cigarette do its own talking. You'll get the whole thrilling story, in just two words... "They Satisfy!"

INTEREST SHOWN IN KLEIN ADDRESS

Many Express Appreciation of Opportunity To Hear Business Expert.

Acknowledgment of the opportunity to hear Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, when he talks before the Presidents' Club, November 3, came from representatives of the general public Tuesday, following an invitation issued by Fredrick J. Paxton, directing arrangements.

Special acknowledgment was received from Mrs. W. P. Dunn, president of the Atlanta Women's Club, for the opportunity given the women of the city.

The speech will be made at a dinner at the Biltmore hotel and reservations may be made at $2.50 a plate. Mr. Paxton said indications are that one of Atlanta's most representative audiences will hear the lecture.

Dr. Klein's specific subject will be "Present Business Conditions" and he will be introduced by Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, who has long been a friend of the assistant secretary.

A native of California, Dr. Klein has made a distinguished career for himself. He was drafted from the Harvard School of Business Administration, where he was a professor, for service as commercial attaché in charge of the department of commerce office at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Later, under Mr. Hoover's regime as secretary of commerce, he became director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

LIEUT. W. P. REED DIES, FUNERAL RITES TODAY

Final rites for Lieutenant W. P. Reed, 70, well known veteran member of the Atlanta police department, who died Tuesday morning at the residence, 506 Melville avenue, after a short illness, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Capitol View Methodist church, with the Rev. Claud Hendrick and the Rev. Lee Cuts off officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery.

Lieutenant Reed joined the police force in 1903 and in his many years of service became one of the most beloved officers in the department. He was retired on pension four years ago, and since that time has been employed as a guard at the Fulton county tower.

Chief of Police James I. Beavers, Captain A. J. Holcomb, Lieutenant L. J. Carroll, Lieutenant J. A. Scott, Patrolman S. D. Vaughn, Captain W. M. Mayo, former chief of police; former Captain G. C. Fain, and Deputy Sheriff R. M. Holland will act as pallbearers. Three of Atlanta's motorcycle officers will escort the funeral procession to the cemetery. The police band will furnish special music at the church.

Lieutenant Reed is survived by his wife, five sons, C. D. and Dave Reed, of Dallas, Texas; W. E. Reed, C. F. and Frank Reed, of Atlanta; a daughter, Mrs. M. J. Hicks, of Temple, Okla.; and three brothers, Arthur Reed, of Temple; John Reed, of Hope, Ark.; and Edward Reed, of Tusculum, N. C.

Stories of New Talkie Star To Win Prizes for Atlantans

HELEN HAYES.

Atlanta theatergoers will have their first opportunity to see Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new star, Helen Hayes, at the Fox beginning Saturday in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," a picture in which the vivacious modern queen of the American stage will play six different roles. She is to be supported by Neil Hamilton and Lenora Stone.

Who is Helen Hayes? The Fox theater management, in co-operation with The Constitution, is offering prizes for the three best 50-word letters telling who the new star is. Atlanta knows that since she was six years old she has been appearing on the stage, working during her childhood with such stars as John Drew and Lew Fields, but beyond that they know little. The Fox theater and The Constitution want those who do know more about the star to write a brief letter, not more than 50 words, so that the other theater fans may have a little advance information from their fellow citizens.

Attilio Baggio, Famed Tenor, Charms Big Atlanta Audience

If Atlanta was disappointed Tuesday at the announcement that Claudia Muzio would not be able to sing in Atlanta last evening because of the late arrival of her boat from Italy, it was glad Tuesday evening that Attilio Baggio, tenor, had come to fill her engagement, for from the outset he proved to be an artist of highest rank. Through the generosity of the Civic Concert Service, Chicago, the Atlanta Music Club was fortunate to have Baggio's concert as an added attraction, making a five-entrance instead of four, and Muzio will sing in Atlanta on Monday, January 25, 1932.

In his first group of songs, Baggio captured his audience and held it throughout the program, his voice being that quality of tenor that throbs with sympathy and richness or floats with delicacy or charms with sentiment and feeling, as the interpretation demands. The first number, "Lina," by San Fiorenzo, was beautifully expressive, and the second, "Aria Insegnatemi a Morire," by Costi, was perhaps the most outstanding of the group, the impassioned plea of a monk "Teach Me To Die," exquisitely interpreted. A love song, "Sotto il Cielo," of Sibella, closed the first group, which so pleased the audience that two encores were necessary.

In the second group, consisting of Schumann's "Im Wanderstunde," and Liszt's "Du bist wie eine Blume," Dvorak's "Dart des Falken Schurke," and Bemberg's "A Toi," there was always evident the rich, melodic tone of the most poignant beauty which characterizes Baggio's singing, and to his expression he brought full measure of musicianship.

Baggio's accompanist, Robert MacDonald, proved his versatility by rendering a group of brilliant piano solos in addition to his sympathetic accompaniments. The ever-popular "Blue Danube Waltzes," Strauss-Schulz-Evler, brought his group to a climactic close, disclosing a digital dexterity and brilliance of tone that received hearty applause, and a demand for two encores.

Of Baggio's last group, numbering Pachelbel's "Love Song," LaForge's "Retreat," Wares' "Mamma's Song," Campbell-Tipton's "The Crying of Waters," and Mona Zucca's "I Love Life," the most appealing were the fascinating "Mamma's Song" and the fiery, passionate rendition of "I Love Life." Two encores which brought favor with the audience were the aria, "Una Furvia Lacrima" from "Elisir d'Amore," sung with a masterful voice control, and the ever-popular "Sole Mio." Baggio's interpretation brought forth a remarkable for its definition and its finish, and his exquisitely-sung tones—high—sustained, fairly floated, proving the unequalled beauty of the artist's voice and his ability to portray tenderness and deep feeling.

A Steinway piano was furnished by Carder Piano Company.

D. A. R. Announces Recent Discovery Of "Real Daughter"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Discovery of another of those rare persons—a "real daughter" of the American Revolution—was announced today by the D. A. R.

She is Mrs. Mary Priscilla Tillman, 93 years old, of Berkeley, Cal., daughter of Sergeant Fielding Reynolds, of the South Carolina cavalry, who enlisted in the Revolutionary War at the age of 16.

Mrs. Tillman is a widow, mother, and a grandmother of soldiers whose combined service covers all wars in which the United States has ever engaged—including the Indian campaigns along the frontier.

The other six "real daughters" who still survive are: Mrs. Mariah Story Allen, of New Lexington, Ohio; Miss Sarah Pool and Mrs. Mary Pool Newcomb, sisters, Gibson, Ga.; Mrs. Loring Avery, Williamstown, Conn.; Mrs. Annie Knight Gregory, Selingsgrove, Pa.; Mrs. Caroline Phebe Randall, Springfield, Vt.

AKRON COMMISSIONED AT LAKEHURST BASE

Secretary Adams, on Deck of Constitution, Compares Two Craft.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Ceremonies commissioning the navy's newest ship—the Akron—Assistant Secretary Ingalls tonight expressed a hope she would be a forerunner of great commercial fleets of air liners.

"We feel the Akron means more than a potential military weapon," he said. "As she lies here tonight at her mast, the lights that show her tremendous, silvery hull, cannot fail to bring home the belief that there is possible in this type of ship—modified in design to fit the purpose—a commercial carrier of promise. The navy will continue the task assigned to it in the national defense scheme of developing rigid airships, and we sincerely hope that this new ship will mark a decisive forward step in lighter-than-air history."

Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of naval aeronautics, congratulated the American people on being at least first in the world in the lighter-than-air branch of aviation.

Moffett also forecast that as soon as the Goodyear Zeppelin Company is through building the Akron's sister ship, just begun, a great commercial airship of perhaps 9,000,000 cubic feet will be begun.

From the Baltimore harbor, aboard the U. S. S. Constitution, Secretary Adams added a word to the Lakehurst ceremonies by radio.

In a few words, as he stood on the deck of the veteran sailing vessel, he sketched the contrast between the present and the day when the Constitution represented the last word in navigation.

"The Constitution's towering spars and intricate rigging represent the picturesque era of sails," said Adams. "Since her active days, man has conquered navigation under and above the surface of those seas which the Constitution sailed to such good purpose. The Akron represents the latest development in man's attempt to master the air."

These letters are to be addressed to The Constitution theater critic and must be posted not later than midnight Friday night. The winners will be announced in the edition of Sunday morning. The first prize is $15 in cash, the second $10 and the third a double pass for four weeks to the Fox theater, which will be shown in ample time for the winner to view the picture next week.

"The Sin of Madelon Claudet" was shown to a critical preview audience Tuesday morning and all who viewed it were loud in their praise of the work of Miss Hayes. The six roles, taking the leading character from a little girl to aged womanhood, were done to perfection by the new star.

Manager Carter Barron, of the Fox, believes that in Miss Hayes the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization has found an actress who will be among the foremost on the American screen when the public has had an opportunity to view her work.

Blume, Dvorak's "Dart des Falken Schurke," and Bemberg's "A Toi," there was always evident the rich, melodic tone of the most poignant beauty which characterizes Baggio's singing, and to his expression he brought full measure of musicianship. Baggio's accompanist, Robert MacDonald, proved his versatility by rendering a group of brilliant piano solos in addition to his sympathetic accompaniments. The ever-popular "Blue Danube Waltzes," Strauss-Schulz-Evler, brought his group to a climactic close, disclosing a digital dexterity and brilliance of tone that received hearty applause, and a demand for two encores.

Melvin Keller, Businessman at 11, Never Even Heard of 'Depression'

There may be a business depression—but if there is, Melvin Keller, Atlanta's youngest salesman, hadn't heard of it Tuesday afternoon.

Melvin—11 years old Monday—has been in business for himself three years.

Success was instantaneous. That first afternoon he earned a profit of 50 cents, repaid his mother and bought more peanuts for the next day's canvass.

Business Expanded. Shortly after that he expanded his business and began selling chewing gum and chewing gum. Melvin has a regular route in the northwestern section of town and makes his rounds daily, rain or shine. His total daily sales run into dollars.

To prove that his business is profitable and that he possesses sound economic judgment, Melvin carries insurance on his own life and that of his mother and father. He pays premiums on eight different policies.

In personal appearance the youthful business genius is a duplicate of millions of American boys. Blond hair and blue eyes, slightly soiled hands and a careless swank in his overalls, all classify him as a member of that great institution, American youth.

Melvin's customers buy, and they buy because the lad is a studious salesman with a developed sales talk. He demonstrated it first thing on a newspaper reporter, and made his sale before he gave an interview. A constant addition is made to his life of buyers and he numbers them in scores.

Reads Newspapers. "I learned what I know by reading newspapers," he said in answer to a question. "I read the ads and then I make my sales talk sound like one of the ads. It is the case. He attributed most of his success to P. F. Engle and W. T. Minor, sales executives with a local automobile branch house, and said they had taught him how to sell. He is a daily caller upon the two men, who have taken a serious interest in the boy.

Gambler's Honor Code Is Reversed by Court

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A gambler's code of honor is one thing, the law another in Alabama.

So ruled Judge James Rice, court of appeals, in deciding that W. W. Knox was entitled to recover five bales of cotton that Jim Groom carried away from Knox's barn in Limestone county under provisions of a written bet.

Under the bet, Groom guaranteed Knox a 20-bale cotton crop on his (Knox's) farm, all surplus cotton to go to Groom. The crop totaled 25 bales and Groom collected during Knox's absence. Knox recovered the five bales in Limestone circuit court and Groom appealed.

"A gambler's code of honor is one thing, the law another," Judge Rice ruled. "Whether Knox is a player in the language of the 'gambler's fraternity' will not be discussed here. He may have had valid reasons."

Since shortly after he embarked upon his career.

"What word sells more goods than any other in the United States," he inquired. When no reply came he said:

"Only 5 cents for chewing gum—catch on."

"Only the Magic Word." No one had caught on and Melvin explained that "only" sells more goods than any other word.

"What word carries more dynamite than any other?" Melvin had assumed the role of interviewer. "Courtesy," he answered his own question.

Like all businessmen, Melvin will express his opinions and he thinks the prohibition law has not helped matters much. "But wise men don't drink liquor," he said.

The boy is a student in High 4 class at Williams Street school and is a model student, his teachers say.

Among his best customers Melvin listed Mr. F. Engle, Mr. Minor, H. T. Dobbs, W. H. Boomerhouse and J. C. Hammond—all well-known Atlanta businessmen.

Suddenly the interview was interrupted. Melvin looked at a clock on the wall, arose from his chair with finality, apologized for his leaving and said goodbye.

"I've a business appointment and only five minutes left to get there," he said, businessman to the last.

7TH DAY ADVENTISTS INDORE PROH LAWS

KEY'S WORD FINAL IN CHOICE OF CHIEF

Mayor Could Oust Appointee by New Board After January 1.

While members of the Atlanta police committee Tuesday marked time in the outer move against Chief of Police James L. Beavers, awaiting the return to Atlanta of Mayor James L. Key, it developed that Key will have the final word in the naming of Beavers' successor.

Because terms of present committee members expire the first Monday in January, 1932, and an ordinance making it mandatory that all officers of the department undergo six months' probationary period before being selected permanently, Key will be able to force the committee to select any successor he chooses.

Key appoints all committees, and the entire committee could be replaced when new selections are made. If the committee selected anyone not approved by Key, he could replace the present committee, name a group opposed to the new appointee and be assured of his ouster at the end of the six-month probationary period. Key could even go so far as to place his new committee appointees to oust anyone he failed to approve.

Under Section 2222 of the city code, all officers, including the chief, must pass the six-month period before becoming full-fledged officials in their respective jobs.

And it is just this point which has caused the committee to seek the cooperation of Key now, it was indicated Tuesday. Another roundtable discussion of the problem probably will be held Thursday, when Key returns to his office from a speaking engagement at Jessup.

There seems little probability that the present committee will attempt to take any drastic steps unless Key agrees to them. The committee probably will await appointments next year unless Key concurs in its views. At any rate, there seems little immediate chance of action unless Key and the committee can agree on Beavers' successor, and the new development bids fair to make the issue a controversy, which has been waged for the past several weeks.

Text of Section 2232, which ties the hands of the police committee, follows:

"That any person promoted to the position of sergeant, captain or chief shall serve in such position for a probationary period of not exceeding six months. If during the six months probationary period, or at the expiration thereof, such person is notified by the police committee that his service is not satisfactory, such person shall be reduced to rank. If such person receives no such notification, his employment shall be considered to hold good during good behavior and efficient service, and he shall be finally and exclusively judged by the police committee."

were held with the Georgia Tech naval unit, O. T. C. unit.

American Airways, Inc., at Candler field, was the first to learn by radio of the approach of the ship. Officials there had been notified by the Los Angeles that she was near the city and an immediate order sent a flight of airplanes into the air to form an escort for the nation's second largest dirigible. Lieutenant Raymond R. Brown, fourth corps area air officer, led the flight, which was made up of Captain J. P. Ficklin and Lieutenants E. C. Davis, Hugh DuBoise and L. Newberger.

Five navy planes from Pensacola also took part in formation flights over the city.

The reported itinerary of the Los Angeles Monday was that it would fly from Lakeland, N. J., to Parris Island, S. C., to spend Monday night. Changes in schedule brought the dirigible direct from Lakeland to Georgia and visits were paid to Macon, Columbus and other cities before she reached Atlanta.

Navy Day in Atlanta brought more than sky capers by airplane and dirigible, and the city was host to Rear Admiral J. J. Raby, of Charleston, who came here to present a trophy won by the Atlanta battalion of the naval reserve in maneuvers this year. The local unit was adjudged the most efficient of any of the nation's 35 battalions.

Atlanta's naval unit won its award for attaining, among other things, the third highest mark in the maneuver in competition with 147 divisions throughout the United States. In presenting the plaque, Admiral Raby declared that he wished to congratulate the state of Georgia for "its fine support of our navy."

"In my contacts with the naval activities of Georgia, which state is a part of the sixth naval district under my command," Admiral Raby said, "as well as my personal contacts

Admiral Raby Presents Plaque to Atlanta Naval Unit

Atlanta's naval battalion, commanded by Harry F. Dobbs, was accorded an unusual honor Tuesday night when Rear Admiral James J. Raby presented to the unit the navy's trophy for highest efficiency among 147 units in the country. Shown beside the plaque, left to right, are Lieutenant Commander Jesse Draper, Major General Frank R. McCoy, Adjutant General Charles Cox, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., Admiral Raby, the trophy, and Lieutenant Commander Harry F. with men in the navy from this state, I find the results of loyalty and successful achievement in abundance. Many Georgians have reached the highest ranks in our navy. Admiral William S. Benson was the ranking naval officer in the United States during the World War, holding the position of chief of naval operations. "Rear Admiral Frank Hardeman Brumby, from Athens, a warm personal friend of mine, now commanding of the Norfolk navy yard, is well known in the navy for his long and successful service, strong character and great ability as pilot, navigator and seaman. His uncle, the late Thomas M. Brumby, was flag lieutenant to Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila Bay."

At noon the admiral, his staff and a drill squad of the crack battalion were guests of the Rotary Club at luncheon at the Capital City Club. Lieutenant Commander Harry F. Dobbs, commanding the Atlanta naval reserve unit, was master of ceremonies. The speech was a demonstration of manual of arms and Admiral Raby in a special paid tribute to the excellency of the prize-winning unit.

Other naval officers on the program were Captain J. J. London, commander of the Georgia Tech naval R. O. T. C.; Lieutenant L. D. Causey, recruiting officer for the southeast, and Lieutenant Commander Jesse Draper, chairman of the navy league for the state of Georgia.

At 6 o'clock a banquet for naval officers was held at the Biltmore hotel and Admiral Raby was guest of honor. Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. and General Frank L. McCoy, commanding the fourth corps area, were special guests.

Commander Jesse Wheeler, U. S. N. R., presided at the Navy Day dinner at the Biltmore. Governor Russell said the principal speaker.

"I cannot go as far as those who are willing to wipe the American navy off the map," Governor Russell said, "because I wholeheartedly subscribe to the doctrine that the navy of this country ought not to be second to that of any in the world."

Governor Russell was applauded by the diners, including Admiral Raby, President M. L. Brittain and Captain J. J. London, of the Tech naval unit. Following the banquet the assembly hurried to the naval reserve armory on West Peachtree street, where Admiral Raby presented the efficiency trophy to Lieutenant Commander Dobbs for the battalion. The presentation was preceded by a review of the concluding event of the Navy Day program was a radio talk by Admiral Raby from station WSB at 10:30 o'clock.

Particular interest in the visit of the Los Angeles was held by families and friends of five Georgians aboard the ship. In addition to Lieutenant Watson the group included Lieutenant Commander William K. Phillips, of 222 North Highland avenue, N. E.; Lieutenant Charles H. Calloway, of Clarksville; Boatwain Joe W. Youngblood, of Reynolds; and Arthur H. Walton, of Jefferson.

Following its departure the Los Angeles was sighted over Athens and Augusta on its way to Parris Island, where it was scheduled to remain overnight.

FLIGHT WAS "VISIT HOME"

FOR LIEUT. GEORGE WATSON

SHELLMAN, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP)—To some members of the crew of the giant dirigible Los Angeles, its journey into the south today was just one more trip, but to Lieutenant George Watson, it was a visit home.

His great metal hull shining like silver under the morning sun, the Los Angeles arrived over Shellman at 7:50 this morning. It circled the town several times and then flew at low altitude directly over the home of Lieutenant Watson. He appeared in the cabin and waved to his mother who stood in the yard at the Watson residence.

The town was decorated with flags and bunting and practically the entire population turned out to wave a greeting to their fellow townsman.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A Navy Day with officers under orders to avoid controversial subjects in speeches indicated the unusual circumstances which surround the service day.

Powers Re-Booked by Deputy Whose Keys He Stole in 1926

Abe Powers, convicted member of the Floyd Woodward bunco syndicate, is shown at the left above, as he was booked at the tower Monday night, by Deputy Sheriff Joe Schillings, from whom he escaped in August 1926. At that time Powers coolly walked off with the deputy's keys as the latter was caring for prisoners in the rear of the jail. The photograph was made by George Cornett, Constitution photographer, who was visiting officials at the jail on the night Powers walked to freedom.

Abe Powers, former member of the Floyd Woodward bunco syndicate who was returned to Atlanta Monday night after five years of liberty on an escape from Fulton Tower, may not serve more than five months before he is released a free man to pick up his new life as a salesman in Texas, it was revealed Tuesday by the state prison commission.

Given an indeterminate sentence of from two to five years, Powers has served, with penalties included, seven years and six months. The usual rule of the commission is to add an extra year for every escape. An extra year now, with credit for the seven months beyond his minimum, would bring about his release early in March of next year.

Powers first entered the Tower on March 12, 1921, and escaped April 15, of the same year. He was recaptured on May 4, 1923, and served at the state farm at Milledgeville until February 12, 1925, when he again escaped. He was recaptured on October 1, 1925, and served until August 8, 1926, when he was arrested last week in connection with the death of Bert Donaldson, investigator in Solicitor-General John A. Boykin's office, its president.

Since that time he has been working as a salesman in San Antonio, Texas, where he was arrested last week and returned here Monday night in custody of Deputy Sheriff Emmett Quinn. Mr. Boykin stated Tuesday that he intended to confer with the prison commission before taking any action as to whether he shall indict Powers for the escape.

"In many classes the children show day after day an increasing need of proper clothing. They are ashamed of their threadbare state in the presence of children from homes which are not yet stricken by want; or they are actually in danger of injurious exposure, because shoes and clothing are worn to the limit, and beyond the limit."

Teachers observe these things, and so the Atlanta teachers will be found among the readiest of givers to the relief fund.

Eager response from other groups was reported by campaign workers at the rally Tuesday afternoon when contributions of $30,344 were announced by a part of the organization. This brought the total to $270,547 of the sum of $300,000 declared to be necessary.

At the same time, the workers were warned that the response generally is below that necessary for success of the campaign, and that if complete success is not attained, there can be no help for many a tragic situation.

"There is no way to dodge the responsibility that confronts us who have jobs and homes," said Harrison Jones, vice president of the Coca-Cola Company, speaking to the workers. "There is no excuse for any employed man or woman to fail in giving."

general. Mr. Hurley already has begun drafting his formal report—on which will focus much debate. Then his annual report as well will go into the question, and President Hoover's message to congress doubtless will face it. In the minds of those interested, too, are the predictions which have been made that the new congress will deal with the problem in legislation.

Back in 1916, congress stated its purpose to recognize the 7,083 islands that comprise the Philippines to be independent "as soon as a stable government can be established therein."

The trade importance of the region has increased more in the 33 years since Admiral Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet in Manila bay than it had in all the years from its discovery by Magellan in 1521 up until 1898.

The factors of Philippine products entering this country duty-free to compete with American products, and of immigration to United States shores, both have had important places in the controversy over independence. There has also been a big question of sentiment whether to keep the Philippines against their will.

Even as President Hoover talked today, dispatches reached Washington from Manila telling of three independence propositions put before administration and congressional leaders here by Manuel L. Quezon, president of the insular senate.

Conditional Freedom.

The first calls for immediate freedom with free trade with the United States for ten years, but limiting sugar and oil exports, and restricting Filipino immigration into this country.

The second would make similar trade and migration arrangements; and have provisions for broad autonomy, but with restrictions safeguarding American sovereignty for ten years. After that, a plebiscite would be held to determine whether the Philippines wanted to continue under such government or become independent.

On hearing what Mr. Hoover had to say, Pedro Guevara—senior congressman here for the Philippines—contended the administration "should come out with a definite program regarding the islands."

He planned to consult with Secretary Hurley later in the week. Pending the secretary's report, he is withholding comment on developments as to the independence movement.

Chairman Bingham, of the senate territories committee, agreed with what the president had to say. He expects congress to enact some sort of independence legislation at the coming session.

The Connecticut senator expressed a hope the time provided before a plebiscite is taken will be long enough to permit the readjustment in Philippine industry which will be necessitated "by the fact that their best market will be shut off by tariff walls when they become independent."

THREE PLANS OFFERED BY FILIPINO LEADER

MANILA, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Three Philippine independence propositions were broached to American administration and congressional leaders by President Manuel L. Quezon, of the insular senate while in the United States on an independence mission, he said tonight in a formal statement.

The propositions were:

1—Immediate independence with free trade with the United States for ten years, but limiting sugar exports to 1,000,000 tons, oil to the present export figure, and with restrictions on Filipino immigration into the United States.

2—Broad autonomy but with restrictions safeguarding American sovereignty for ten years and a plebiscite at the end of that period to determine whether the Philippines want to continue under such a government or be-

Beaman's Ex-Shipmate Radios Him From Airship

While the giant Los Angeles soared over the city Monday morning thrilling thousands with its size and magnificence, a further thrill was received by one Atlantan when an old friend aboard the dirigible radioed him a message.

The message was from McNeally Daws, chief radio operator of the ship, and was sent to Henry Beaman, of Avondale Estates, representative from DeKalb county. Daws and Beaman were shipmates for many years before the latter retired from the navy in 1922. The communication, which was telephoned to Beaman at his office, said, "Regards to an old shipmate."

come independent. Trade and immigration arrangements would be the same as in the first proposition.

4—Independence in any form. Senator Quezon said the statement was issued to "halt false rumors" concerning a report he intends to submit to the legislature shortly.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The assertions of former president-elect Hoover, that the Philippines are not ready to exploit but to develop, to civilize, to educate, to train in the science of self-government."

Roosevelt: "The islands should at an early moment be given their independence without any guaranty whatever by us and without our retaining any foothold in them."

Taft, in commenting in 1908 on a democratic platform advocacy of independence: "It is an affirmation of a policy only very slightly different from that repeatedly announced by this and preceding republican administrations."

Wilson, in 1913: "We must hold steadily in view their (the Philippines) ultimate independence."

Harding: "No backward step is contemplated. At this time it is not for me to suggest the day distant or near (for independence)."

Coolidge: "Although they have made wonderful advances in the last quarter-century, the Filipino people are by no means equipped, either in wealth or experience, to undertake the heavy burden which would be imposed upon them by political independence."

Methodist Meeting.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 27.—Dr. J. A. McCarty, chairman of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church, of Barnesville, has called a special meeting of the board for Friday night.

The announcement of the defense will force a court here to permit arguments on the legality of the papers. The writ will supersede a similar action filed upon the surrender of Mrs. Judd last Friday night. Counsel did not disclose what objection will be made, but it was anticipated the brief description in the extradition papers of the killing of the victim, Miss Hattie Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes LeRoy, will be at least one basis for the contest.

The papers represent the time of the crime as October 16. Mrs. Judd has said it was October 17.

The announcement of the defense was an about-face of the position taken last night when counsel said extradition would not be opposed.

Meanwhile the principal investigation of the crime went forward in Phoenix in a search for evidence to break down an anticipated plea of self-defense and insanity. Mrs. Judd has claimed she shot the woman when they attacked her during a quarrel over a man.

Jail attaches here said they understood she has been examined by a psychiatrist and that she told him a member of her family had died in an insane asylum.

A FRIENDLY ATTITUDE

An Essential of Business Nowadays

WHEN an institution such as a bank can develop a "personality" that is generally measured in terms of friendliness, it is well on its way to greater service in its community.

At the Fulton National Bank all officials and directors are available to every one seeking counsel on any phase of banking or financial matters.

The expression "The Friendly Fulton" was coined for us many years ago by an appreciative public and to those of modest means or large affairs who believe that "a friendly attitude is an essential of modern banking service" an invitation is extended to become better acquainted.

Wallace was at the stage door after the matinee. Doubts had assailed Irma during her sleepless night. She was glad to be able to reassure herself that he was attractive. It would be terrible to think that a funny looking, elderly man had proposed to her. But so, he was tall and straight and in appearance suggestive of the husband in those problem plays that always have the first scene laid in Lady Ponsonby's drawing room.

Almost in his first words were, "Irma have you thought it over?" She shook her head. "Not enough, Wallace. Besides I couldn't leave Phil flat, you know."

Neither of them noticed that she had considered the matter pretty thoroughly.

"But I still have a chance, Irma?" She nodded.

"Then please think it over today and tell me tonight."

Bill sat with them while they ate. He wasn't hungry, he said. He had been drinking heavily. Irma wished he would go away. Suppose he mentioned in Wallace's presence his first offer to her? What would Wallace think of her? Certainly nothing good.

Both men accompanied Irma to the theater.

Wallace left her at the stage door. He squeezed her hand in parting and whispered, "I have to go, dear, or I wouldn't leave you with Bill. But he's all right. I've seen him this way lots of times. Don't be frightened, I'll be back after the show."

He was gone then to attend a meeting or do one of the million other things that his position seemed to require. Bill leaned against the rack where the keys to the dressing rooms hung. He looked down at Irma and tried to keep his gaze steadily upon her face. He couldn't. Occasionally he blinked.

"Poor old Graham," he said. "He's got it bad. He's in love. And do you know with whom? With you."

"O, not really."

"What? You didn't know that, huh? Well, he's nuts about you. Keeps goggling at you all the time. Funny fellow, that Graham. Nice fellow. I like him. It's all a matter of whether you want to be a wife or not."

"What?"

"Sure. I know he took you to meet his family. A guy don't do that for nothing. Do you want to be a wife, huh?"

He tilted her chin upwards and tried to search her face with his wavering eyes. "There's only three kinds of women, you know. Who said that first? Certainly it wasn't little Bill Fitzgibbon. Anyhow, there's wives, mothers and whores. That's a woman is either one of those or a blend of two or all three. See? There's no other kind to pick from. Tell me pretty maiden, which are you?"

"I'll take vanilla," Irma said.

"That's just it. There's no vanilla. There's only wives, mothers and whores. If there was vanilla I'd take some myself. You see if you're a wife then it's just too bad. You're supposed to be a mathematician, a psychologist and a dietitian. You're supposed to be good humored all the time; you're supposed to know where Wally left his keys, his laundry and his pipe. And besides that, Wally will snore and walk in while you're bathing and tell you that all your clothes are terrible and look worried if you ask for money for more. That's being a wife and I'm not fooling. Some of my best friends were wives and I know all about it."

"But it must have a sunny side," Irma ventured.

"Sure, it has. The first ten days. They're grand because your husband is still treating you as though you were a mistress. He's attentive, anxious to please, respectful of your whims. After that, well, it becomes marriage."

Bill swayed slightly and clutched the key rack. "I'd take marriage, too, if I had no imagination," he said. "But I have one. Someday I can see me standing in my B. V."

D's, shaving and swearing, while you flounce in and out of the bathroom looking for baby's milk of magnesia. No, thanks. I may lose you to the old orange blossom kid, but I'll still have something your husband won't have and that's glamour. My God, I'm drunk."

The doorman clumped into view and settled himself on the rickety chair four feet away from where they stood. He unfolded a newspaper and began to read.

Irma said, "Well, Bill, I have to go to bed now. I'll see you at the place at eleven."

"But you're going to be my little girl, aren't you? You're not going to let all City Hall in on your private affairs, are you?"

"Come in," get sober and I'll tell you tonight."

"All right. I'll go drink black coffee and call back for you."

He started away then but was delayed by a new angle on the marriage racket. By the time he left, Irma had to rush in order to be ready.

When the curtain fell on the act that night Irma went swiftly to her dressing room. Phil was busy on the stage attending to last night's duties. The drops, the little gridded balcony, the numberless props had to be assembled and packed. There was much shouting and arranging between Phil, Tommy, and the stage hands. Irma was in the pretty black lace dress by the time Phil was finished. She was nesting a tall, red comb in her hair when he knocked.

"Come in,"

"Where are you going?" he asked, watching her fit the red comb between the silky waves of hair.

"You know. I'm going to judge the tango contest."

"You're not."

"Who's going to stop me?"

"I am."

"You and what police force?"

"Now, listen, Irma. I talked it over with the Filmora. They had girl acts for years until they started to work alone. They know all the rules and they say you have to go on the train I go on."

"O, yeh?"

"Yeh. They said I was in the right. Sure, I am. It stands to reason. How would I know you'd show up in Garchester and I'd be stuck."

"Well, I'm not going tonight."

"You gotta go with me. I can fire you right here without notice if you refuse."

"Phil, don't start something you'll be sorry for."

"Sorry? Why, you lousy little amateur, there's better dancers than you walking streets for a living. How'd you like to be fired here?"

"How'd you like to be left without a girl for the act here?"

"I'd get a girl easy enough. I'd get one who didn't cart drinks backstage and make a holy show of herself petting with them right where everybody could see her."

"Well, then, get one, because I'm not going to Garchester."

"O, you're not? Where's the two weeks' notice you have to give me?"

"I don't have to give you two weeks' notice. I'm through with show business."

"Yeh? Going to try monkey business instead, huh?"

"Maybe. I haven't decided."

He went out then, slamming the door behind him. She stood for a moment with her hand on the door knob. She wished he hadn't goaded her on to taking this irrevocable step. It was a filthy trick she had pulled on him. Tommy and he would be out of work at least a week till another girl had been rehired. Still to take back her words would mean that Phil would ride her unmercifully. He would always believe that he had done her a favor.

She sat down and tried to gather her wits. What now? What was she going to do? What was in the cards? (Continued Tomorrow.)

Dallis-Copeland Marriage Rites Are Solemnized in LaGrange, Ga.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Oct. 27.—The marriage vows of Miss Margaret Dallis and Morris R. Copeland, of Jackson, Ga., were taken before an assemblage of friends and relatives at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Roy Dallis, Thursday evening. Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, senior bishop of the Methodist church, read the marriage service, which was followed by a reception. The Dallis home was decorated with palms, ferns, southern smilax and floor baskets of pink roses, dahlias and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Emory Herman, at the piano, and Miss Gene Ervater, violinist, played "Because," by D'Harlot, and Schubert's "Serenade," preceding the ceremony and rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin. "Sublime Sweet Evening Star," by Wagner, was played during the ceremony.

Miss Ruth Copeland, of Jackson, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. She wore a floor-length period dress of ice blue brocade moire. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of pale pink roses, showered with pink and the ender sweet peas. Miss Louise Dallis, of New York, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a model of pale pink satin, fashioned with rhinestones. Her flowers were a bouquet of deep pink roses showered with sweet peas and tied with white ribbon.

The bride entered with her brother, Leslie Wellington Dallis, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore an exquisite gown of white satin fashioned along Empire lines, girdled with white velvet bands, the long, light-fitted sleeves being encircled with rows of violet bands at the elbow. A veil of white tulle, fitted with a lace cap and a bandeau of orange blossoms formed the court train. The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies showered with lilies and centered with a spray of deep purple orchids. Samuel S. Copeland, of Jackson, father of the bridegroom, was best man. A group of young friends of the bride, including Misses Mary Grimes, Mary Lovejoy, Virginia Alsbrook, Bootie Eley, Kathryn Boykin, Kathryn Glatton, Isabel Morgan, Evelyn Powell and Mrs. Elmina Wade, assisted in serving at the reception. Mrs. Dallis was assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Copeland, of Jackson; Mrs. Hutton Lovejoy, Mrs. James L. Bradford, Mrs. R. C. Key, Mrs. Emory Park, Mrs. R. O. Pharr, Mrs. Boyd Ryndale, Mrs. Sanford Dunson and Mrs. Ernest Stallings. The bride's book was kept by Miss Elizabeth Rakestraw. Mrs. Dallis wore a gown of black velvet with a shawl collar, bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies. Mrs. Samuel S. Copeland wore black velvet with rhinestones and her flowers were roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland left for a wedding trip by motor. On their return they will be at home at Jackson, Georgia.

Among the out-of-town guests were

Mr. and Mrs. Mixsell Feted at Parties During Visit Here

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Leighton Mixsell, of Bethlehem, Pa., arrived in Atlanta yesterday to visit their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Kline, at Bellemeade, their handsome new home on Peachtree Battle Avenue, in Haynes Manor. They are numbered among the prominent visitors here this week and will be feted at a series of social affairs. Mr. and Mrs. Kline entertained at a buffet supper this evening in compliment to their guests, and Mrs. John Smith gives an informal luncheon in their honor Friday, October 30, at Brookhaven Country Club.

Mrs. Clifford C. Hatcher's informal tea Saturday afternoon in compliment to these prominent visitors will be given at her home on Peachtree Circle after the Tech-Vanderbilt football game. Mr. and Mrs. Mixsell motored to Atlanta from Allentown, Pa., where their marriage was brilliantly solemnized last week in Christ Lutheran church. Mrs. Mixsell was formerly Miss Louise Gradwohl, and has a wide circle of admiring friends in Atlanta, made upon frequent visits to Mr. and Mrs. Kline. Fifty guests will be invited to meet them at the buffet supper this evening, and another group of 50 will be invited by Mr. and Mrs. Kline to meet Mr. and Mrs. Mixsell at a buffet supper, given Saturday evening, October 31, at Bellemeade, their Haynes Manor residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Stahlman Will Arrive Friday

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Stahlman, of Nashville, Tenn., will be among the socially important visitors attending the Halloween ball given at the Piedmont Driving Club Friday evening. They will be honor guests in the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris Jr., whose guests they will be at their home on Habersham road during their week-end visit here. Invited to meet them are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Bird and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Blacklock.

Mr. and Mrs. Stahlman and Mr. and Mrs. Harris will be numbered among the spectators witnessing the Tech-Vanderbilt football game, to be played Saturday on Grant field. Mr. Stahlman is an alumnus of Vanderbilt and will be among the most enthusiastic supporters of the visiting team, in whose honor they will wear the black and gold. Mr. Stahlman is the publisher of the Nashville Banner.

Parties Announced For Miss Wynne

Miss Harriett Wynne, charming debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy F. Wynne and secretary of the Debutante Club, will be honor guest at the tea at which Mrs. Carroll McGaughey will entertain Monday, November 2, at her home on Lombardy way. The guests will include a group of debutantes, Miss Wynne will make her formal bow to Atlanta society at the breakfast at which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wynne, will entertain Saturday, November 7, preceding the Georgia Tech-North Carolina football game. The guests at this affair will include a group of the younger contingent.

Miss Wynne shared honors yesterday with Miss Elizabeth Thompson, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Thompson, and Miss Josephine Richardson, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, at the buffet luncheon at which Miss Laura Hoke was hostess at her home on Peachtree circle.

Mrs. Michael Hoke assisted her daughter in entertaining. The guests included the members of the Debutante Club, who are Misses Helen Bivings, Frances Clarke, Catherine Flagger, Ann Wynn Fleming, Nancy Frederick, Jane King, Jane de Bruyn Kops, Gardner Gunby, Norma McNair, Josephine Moore, Louise Moore, Ida Nevin, Mamie Raine, Josephine Richardson, Jane Sharpe, Helen Hill Smith, Ida Thomas, Elizabeth Thompson, Clare Jones, Mary Crenshaw, Betty Timmons, Peggy Underwood, Harriet Wynne, Violet Graham, Mary Crenshaw and Sarah Sharp.

Welfare committee of Grant Park Woman's Club, of which Mrs. Fred H. Brady is chairman, will sponsor a Halloween silver tea Thursday, October 29, at the home of Mrs. D. F. Smith, 410 Park avenue, S. E. Mrs. W. Heery, president, requests members and their friends to attend.

Lenox Garden Club President

Mrs. H. H. Ware Jr., newly-elected president of Lenox Garden Club, the horticultural organization recently formed in Lenox Park, one of the most attractive subdivisions northeast of Morningside. Mrs. Ware is an enthusiastic flower lover, and the progress of this garden club under her leadership will be of an interesting nature. The planting of flowers and landscaping of several plots of ground in Lenox Park has been chosen by the club as its project and the beautifying of their lawns and gardens the purpose of the members. ## Atlanta Federation Members To Conduct Two-Day Campaign Directed by the president, Mrs. R. Murdoch Walker, members of Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs will conduct a two-day house-to-house campaign Thursday and Friday to solicit funds in order to complete the quota assigned to the women's division of the Community Chest and relief campaign fund. There are 97 clubs under Mrs. Walker's leadership and through this particular channel several hundred women will be placed in the field to bend their efforts toward reaching the ultimate goal.

A booth, placed on the main floor of Davidson-Paxon Company on Thursday and Friday will be in charge of Mesdames Francis E. Block, Alfred L. Myers, E. V. Carter, William T. Healey and J. J. Goodrum, to whom the general public can make donations. Another booth will be arranged on the main floor of Rich's, Inc., and will be under the direction of Mesdames James N. Bravner, E. K. Large and Raymond H. Wolfe, who will gladly receive donations.

In stressing the importance and seriousness of this undertaking by Atlanta federation Mrs. Walker issued a forceful and earnest letter in which she stated that "This is a reminder that all effort and loyalty of every woman in your club has been pledged to the support of the Community Chest in this year's campaign. The unemployment situation is acute, as we all know, and I am wondering if it is possible for you, as a club, to work out a plan whereby each member would help you to give a certain sum, as a club, to the unemployment relief fund. This of course would be in addition to the personally signed pledges which your members have made to the Community Chest."

"Possibly a mite box at each meeting would be advisable, if it were marked for the emergency relief fund. Be sure that every amount of money, however small, must be according to our pledge sent to the Community Chest, Postoffice Box 1028, for disbursement in welfare relief work."

Members of Atlanta federation willing to assist in this drive are requested to meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Parlor F, in the Piedmont hotel. Mrs. Walker will organize her forces for a city-wide campaign, the result of which will add greatly to the coffers of the Community Chest and the emergency relief.

Mobilizes Forces. Every day for the past two weeks energetic Mrs. Walker has been at her desk in the Volunteer State Life building opposite the Piedmont hotel, giving her time and thought toward mobilizing her forces and directing the women's division. She has been ever on the alert to bring into action the woman power so necessary to launch a relief program and carry it to a successful end. She organized her forces under five majors including Mesdames J. J. Goodrum, L. H. Moss, J. Bonar White, H. C. McCutcheon and C. M. Settle, who appointed their captains.

The committee operating under Mrs. Goodrum included Mesdames Fonville McWhorter, William T. Healey, J. E. Carlton and E. V. Carter as captains, canvassed the territory from Peachtree creek north to Buckhead, including Pace's Ferry road and Garden Hills.

The territory from Ponce de Leon avenue north on West Peachtree and Peachtree streets to Peachtree creek, was under the direction of Mrs. Moss and her captains, Mesdames Herman Heyman, Alfred L. Myers, T. W. Tift, Clarence Knowles and G. R. Apfelbaum.

Mrs. White was in charge of Druid Hills and Morningside sections and assisting her as captains were Mesdames John Jarrell, Parks Hunt, C. W. Roberts, G. F. Flynt and C. H. Morris.

Mrs. McCutcheon had from Grant Park to Ponce de Leon, including Kirkwood under her supervision, and serving as captains were Mesdames C. W. Heery, Ed Almand, R. J. Eaves, June Dennard, H. W. Lay and C. H. Shaff.

Mrs. C. M. Settle, assisted by a group of Salvation Army students, canvassed the West End section. Names were assigned each committee by authorities of the Community Chest and Emergency Relief Committee and those women canvassed the field with cards for both drives to solicit funds which will be distributed this winter through the Community Chest and its trained workers.

These aforementioned committees disband this afternoon to give way

Miss Hamilton And Mr. Snook Feted at Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Harris were hosts at a buffet supper last evening at their home in West End in honor of Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, of Decatur, lovely bride-elect, and Fred Richard Snook, whose marriage will take place this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church in Decatur.

Bright autumn colors were reflected in the dahlias and other fall flowers used in the decorations throughout the home. A cloth of imported lace covered the dining table, which was centered by a low silver bowl filled with pink roses, ageratum and yellow snapdragons and silver candelabra holding lighted pink tapers were placed at either end. Mrs. Harris was assisted by her daughter, Miss Olivia Harris, and Miss Elizabeth Reeves.

The guests included the wedding party, relatives and a number of close friends, including Misses Hamilton, Evelyn, Margaret, Jane and Patsy Cowan, Georgia Brown, Elizabeth Reeves, Frances Burgess, Olivia Harris, Pamela Harris, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. S. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mickel, Dr. and Mrs. D. P. McGeech, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Newton, Fred R. Snook, Burke Hedges, Burton Harris, Jeff MacMillan, Lyle Kratz, Charles W. Harris, Dr. and Mrs. B. A. Dyas.

Senior Hadassah Plans To Hold Annual Ball at Biltmore Nov. 17

Discussion of the annual ball to be held Tuesday evening, November 17, at the Biltmore hotel, featured the meeting of the senior chapter of Hadassah held Monday at the Jewish Progressive Club. Mrs. Ryman Jacobs, the president, presided. The ball has always been the most important social occasions of the chapter, with the senior and junior organizations co-operating on working the program. Mrs. H. Taylor and Mrs. M. Mendle are chairmen of the tickets and have them ready for distribution now. Mrs. M. Zabon, the program chairman, has completed making assignments for the Atlanta chapter. The convention will be held in Atlantic City the week of November 8. Any member may attend the convention. Mrs. Henrietta Zeld, the founder of Hadassah, will be the principal figure of the convention, although many other Zionist workers will be present.

The cultural program was outlined by the chairman, Mrs. B. Brodie, and is extensive in its scope and of educational value to all concerned. The series will deal with the Jewish contribution to art, music, literature, economics and science. The meetings will be held in the private home of the members of the group and the first two meetings will be held at Mrs. Brodie's home on North Boulevard. The first meeting will be held Monday, November 2, at 2 o'clock and Dr. Charles Sheldon Jr., Atlanta's most prominent musician and organist, will speak on "Traditional Jewish and

Mrs. H. Jacobs appointed Mrs. A. Cohen as chairman of the Hadassah division to assist in the poppy day drive to be held November 11. Mrs. J. Friedman was in charge of the October program and presented the celebrated Chic Wilson as soloist, as this month is dedicated to the work of the Jewish national fund, Mrs. Friedman read a paper on the "Origin of the Jewish National Fund," an organization created by the voluntary contributions of world Jewry for the rebuilding of Palestine as a Jewish homeland, and is the basis of all Zionist endeavor. The money is expended for the purpose of buying land in Palestine. Forests are planted, fields are cultivated and made to yield a livelihood, landscapes are beautified for the purpose of making Palestine a land of beauty.

The meeting was followed by a ten, presided over by the refreshment chairman, Mrs. H. Goodman, and by the hospitality and courtesy chairman, Mrs. I. Weinstein and Mrs. J. Yampolsky, who acted as hostesses.

Oriental Club Ball.

Oriental Club will stage its annual Halloween costume ball in the Egyptian ball room at the Shrine Mosque Friday evening, October 30. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and continue until 1 o'clock. Prizes for the best costumes will be given for both ladies and gentlemen. The customary admission of $1 per couple will prevail.

Vignettes.

Lavelette is thirty-five years old. Her hair is grey but her hope is green, perennially so. She gave up her first sweetheart because her parents demanded that she should. After that he went from bad to worse and her parents have never ceased to remind her what a fine service they rendered her. Since that time she has stayed at home, kept house, and waited, believing that some day her dream of love would come true. A young lawyer has come to her town and has courted her. Her parents again object, pointing out to her that they know nothing about the man's finances, his forebears, and his family. Lavelette isn't much concerned about any of these things. She feels that her age she should be allowed to exercise her own judgment and to marry the man regardless of what her parents say and think. There are agencies that do nothing but investigate people. It isn't necessary to accept a man's valuation of himself. And while possibly she has a right to take a chance if she wants to, I think she will be much wiser to have her banker, her lawyer, or some such person, conduct a little private investigation of her finances. This would, if it turned out well, silence her parents, satisfy her curiosity and put at rest any uncomplimentary rumors that might be floating about the small town about the newcomer.

George is one of those kindly, generous souls one rarely meets. He is a background person. He is in the background of his brother's life and his sister's. They have no special affection for him, nor do they take him into account until he comes to the fore. They draw him out, extend their open palms and George fills them. Semi-occasionally they pay him back but not often. He has come to regard all such accommodations on his part as free-will offerings on the altar of family affection. He even goes so far as to throw away money to give his brother, not having the heart to refuse him his request for help. But the worm will turn in time. George is fed up on being the head-man in "The Green Home Bank." He is seeking for a prescription to harden his heart and stiffen his backbone.

And here is one: The leopard can't change his spots. George can't change his nature, but he can change his residence. Let him take his family and himself and move to a place where his good nature cannot be so readily imposed upon. If he doesn't provide for his own future while he is in the productive period he will be sure that a brother and sister who are already in his debt will never help him.

Marietta is young and carefree and at just the right age for boy-friends but just when she was getting a running start a widower stuck out his foot and tripped her. He is twice her age and entertains her largely with stories celebrating the virtues of his dead wife. Every time he mentions her name Marietta rages inwardly. But the thought of the fat income (he's well-to-do), pours oil on the troubled waters and the waves of rage recede. There are other difficulties. She confesses she can't handle him very carefully, for he is jealous of all the men of her acquaintance. If she has a date she doesn't let him know about it, for the scene that follows such knowledge isn't pleasant. She wonders if she is "treading on dangerous ground." Her feet are not on the ground. She is treading water and if she doesn't come quickly to shore she is going to drown.

Bidding Grand Slams

With slightly better than an even chance to fulfill the contract, a Small Slam is mathematically justified. The bid to seven for a Grand Slam is a "horse of another color." A Small Slam, vulnerable, will roughly net the winners 1,500 points. The additional premium for a "big one" is 750 points. Hence the chances must be better than 2 to 1, or conservatively, 3 to 1, to warrant the bid.

Recently, in a week-end of play in Des Moines, Iowa, a young protégé of mine learned, or at least claims he learned, this valuable lesson. He held two tremendous hands, and refused to figure the swing in points from Small Slams to the defeated Grand Slam contracts.

West—Dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

1—With 8 plus in honor-tricks, the "Fourth Hand bidder realized that a bid of two diamonds could only bring a two notrump response. On the theory that the hand would play better with the strength in the closed hand rather than in the Dummy, as it must be if the two diamond bid was properly answered, he made his slightly optimistic bid. I'll let you answer the question, "Who wouldn't?"

The blind Opening lead of the spade 9 certainly enhanced the chances of fulfillment. Now, if the clubs break! Just a big hand gone wrong. This is the other "power house." East-South vulnerable. North-South vulnerable. East-West—no score.

1—The heart bid over the three club bid was unnecessary. South had a right to anticipate at least a bid-able suit. A two notrump response to an Opening Forcing bid is entirely justified.

2—Again, who wouldn't? West made a bold but smart lead—the heart King. North didn't hold the Ace or his response would have been two hearts over the two clubs. Two club leads—a spade followed by a diamond lead—and then five more club leads failed to dislodge the heart Queen. Result: defeat.

In spite of my friend's forbearance to estimate the loss, the two hands figure a total of 3,200 points, not to be sneezed at, and if he reads these figures I'm sure he'll not only think twice but look at his hand three times before calling a Grand Slam again.

WOMAN GIVEN MEDAL FOR DEFEYING LYNCHERS

Mrs. J. C. Butler, Wife of Sheriff, Honored at Huntingdon, Tennessee.

HUNTINGDON, Tenn., Oct. 27.—At an impressive public meeting here today the badge of courage was pinned on the breast of a little woman who last spring successfully defied a mob and saved a prisoner in her keeping, on the very night when another mob in a near-by city took a prisoner from the jail and sacrificed his life.

The recipient of the decoration, which took the form of a handsome medal, was Mrs. J. C. Butler, wife of the sheriff of Carroll county. On the evening of April 18 Mrs. Butler looked into the grim faces of 50 men seeking the life of Henry Wainford, accused of wounding an officer, and told them pointedly "where to get off."

F. H. Reynolds and Wife Now Married 34 Years

Afterman Frank H. Reynolds, of the eighth ward, and Mrs. Reynolds will celebrate their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary November 9, it was learned Tuesday.

Mr. Reynolds is one of the veteran members of council, and has just been re-nominated alderman for another four-year term without opposition.

Mrs. Reynolds formerly was Miss Eva Patterson, daughter of the late William H. Patterson, who for many years was prominent in local political circles and a prominent Atlanta businessman.

"You can shoot me down if you will," she said, "but you can't have my prisoner!" Convinced that she meant it, the mob melted away. The prisoner later was removed to another jail for additional security.

Mrs. Butler's heroism was widely heralded at the time, the more so because on the same night a mob at Union City overpowered the sheriff, broke into the jail and lynched a negro youth charged with a serious crime. In recognition of her courage a commission composed of ex-Governor Hugh Dorsey, of Georgia; Marshall Ballard, editor of the New Orleans Item; George Dealey, publisher of the Dallas News; and Mrs. J. H. McCoy, of Alabama, awarded to Mrs. Butler a handsome medal, engraved with the words, "For notable service, April 18, 1931." On the other side is pictured a heroic figure standing with drawn sword in front of the temple of justice and encircled by the inscription, "In Defense of Law and Civilization."

Hon. J. Sam Johnson, of Huntingdon, presided at today's meeting, and the presentation was made by Dr. James E. Claiborne, of Nashville, editor of the Presbyterian Advance and chairman of the state interracial committee. Mrs. Catherine A. Trimes, of Nashville, spoke on behalf of the women of Tennessee, and Professor J. L. Seels, of McKenzie, expressed the appreciation of the negro group for Mrs. Butler's heroic stand. J. D. Burton, field secretary of the commission on interracial co-operation, spoke on behalf of that body.

LAZY GLANDS

Don't fool yourself! DANDRUFF is the sign of a FOULED SCALP. You can't brush away or wash away PORE FILTH or SCALP SCALE. There is only one remedy—stimulate the lazy glands.

Dandruff is our national shame because people ignore the truth about their hair. Dandruff is a scalp disorder. Soap and water can't cure a sick scalp. Forget surface treatments and get down to the glands.

All hair is nourished by tiny glands, deep in the scalp. When they don't open, your hair starves, gets dry and brittle, and in time falls out. What hair is left loses color. But instead of "touching up" hair that's streaked or off-color, try gland stimulation. Faded locks will come back like magic! Pigmentation will revive the natural color of any hair not completely, permanently gray. Start stimulation of those lazy glands tonight. The only way to wake them is by massage. Use the finger-tips, dipped in Danderine, to cut through gummed pores and hardened secretions. The first treatment ends dandruff. The very first week will loosen the tightest scalp. Two weeks will give the hair new life and promote vigorous coloring and growth. If you don't believe Danderine makes the hair grow, measure a lock before you begin treatment!

Your hair is so dead it will scarcely hold a wave, or your scalp is granular and greasy from wasted secretions, stimulate the lazy glands with Danderine and see what happens before you have used up one thirty-five cent bottle!

Harvest Ball at Fort McPherson Will Be Preceded by Dinner Parties

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga., Oct. 27.—The witching hour is drawing near when goblins ride, owls hoot and ghosts walk the earth. The spirit of the Halloween season will be reflected in the social affairs which mark the calendar during the week in the military circles. Preceding the harvest ball, which will be a colorful affair at Fort McPherson Officers' Club Saturday evening, will be a number of dinner parties given by members of the military set.

Captain Albert H. Dumas and Mrs. Dumas will be hosts at their quarters at an informal buffet supper when the guests will include Major Harvard C. Moore and Mrs. Moore, Major Francis Fuller and Mrs. Fuller, Captain Mark Brunson and Mrs. Brunson, Captain John B. Dinmore and Mrs. Dinmore, Captain Druid E. Wheeler and Mrs. Wheeler and their guests, Miss Roberts Lathrop, of Rockford, Ill.; Mrs. Dudley Golding, of Fort Bragg, N. C., the guest of her parents, Colonel Louis M. Nuttman and Mrs. Nuttman; Captain Henry W. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, Captain Albert G. Wing and Mrs. Wing, Lieutenant J. K. Baker and Mrs. Baker, Lieutenant Francis Stevens and Mrs. Stevens, Lieutenant Albert Carol Morgan and Mrs. Morgan, Lieutenant Charles Lifsey and Lieutenant Douglas McNair.

Lieutenant Robert S. Williams and Mrs. Williams will entertain at an informal supper at their quarters, the guests to include Brigadier General George H. Estes and Mrs. Estes, Colonel Lewis Sidney Morey and Mrs. Morey, Colonel Clyde Abraham and Mrs. Abraham, Major Steven J. Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain, Captain George Abrams and Mrs. Abrams, Miss Lorraine Richardson and Lieutenant Fred Hein.

Lieutenant Marvin W. Peck and Mrs. Peck entertain the same evening at dinner at their quarters when the guests will be Colonel Louis M. Nuttman and Mrs. Nuttman, Captain Joseph Aman and Mrs. Aman, Captain Edwin Aldridge and Mrs. Aldridge, Captain Frank Child and Mrs. Child, Captain Edgar Curran and Mrs. Curran, Captain Frederick Irving and Mrs. Irving and the hosts.

Miss Koolha Pate will be hostess at a hop supper at the home of her parents, Major Joseph B. Pate and Mrs. Pate, on Boulevard Granada, in Cascade Heights. The guests will include Misses Doris Macklin, Florence Butler, Barbara Price, Margaret Fleming and Mike Willard, Robert Price, Ronald Scharie, William Downing, Rodney Peck and Oliver Lyon.

Colonel Laurence O. Mathews and Mrs. Mathews will be hosts at dinner at their quarters honoring their guests, Miss Agnes Williams, of San Antonio, Texas, and Miss Elizabeth Rice, of Kentucky. The guests will include a number of the younger contingent of the military and military social circles. Sharing honors with Miss Williams and Miss Rice will be Ensign L. O. Mathews Jr., U. S. N., who arrives Friday from Pensacola, Fla., with a group of naval officers to visit his parents, Colonel Mathews and Mrs. Mathews.

The harvest ball will be an elegant entertainment and the decorations will reflect the Halloween motif. Colonel Lewis Sidney Morey and Mrs. Morey, Captain Joseph Aman and Mrs. Aman and Lieutenant J. K. Baker and Mrs. Baker will be official hosts. Mrs. Alice Jennings will read the palms of the guests and foretell the events of the future in a gayly decorated stoth, guarded by spears and whistles. The decorations will be arranged by the Superior Novelty Sales Company through the courtesy of Coleman, Lieutenants J. E. Jamy and J. E. Jamy, and a Paul Jones square dance and the traditional grand march will be featured.

Chappell, Robert Womack, Hugh Moses, W. F. Phillips, H. B. Culter Jr., M. M. Smith, R. M. R. Bardwell Jr., J. C. Fye and J. E. Eggleston.

Bridal Couple Feted At Party Series.

Miss Vinita Anderson and James Threll, whose marriage will be a brilliant event of this evening, taking place at 8:30 o'clock at the Glenn Memorial church, were complimented last evening by Mrs. William W. Anderson, of Knoxville, Tenn., at a buffet supper at "The Brambles" on Roswell road. Mrs. Anderson is an aunt of the charming bride-elect and entertained the members of the wedding party following the wedding rehearsal.

Miss Lena Knox entertained at tea yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of Miss Anderson and Miss Augusta Porter, also a bride-elect. A tableau depicting a bridal party in miniature centered the table decorations. Tiny cupids holding bows and arrows marked the places of the guests, who included members of the wedding parties.

Miss Anderson, a main central figure yesterday when Miss Boyce Lokey entertained at luncheon at her home on Fourteenth street. Covers were placed for the members of Miss Anderson's wedding party.

Miss Gray Weds Dallas G. Busby.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 27.—Dr. and Mrs. Sumner Clinton Hall announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Mamie Lee Gray, to Dallas Griffin Busby, the marriage having been solemnized Sunday at the parsonage of Trinity Methodist church. The pastor, the Rev. A. E. Scott, officiated with a ring marriage service, in the presence of the families.

After a motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Busby will be at home on Oakwood road, Summerhill Park. Mrs. Busby is a daughter of Mrs. W. E. Johnston, of Lafayette. For a number of years she has made her home in Rome with her sister, Mrs. Hall. Mr. Busby is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Busby, of Rome.

St. Philip's P. T. A.
Will Give Dance.

The annual Halloween dance of St. Philip's P. T. A. will be given at the chapter house, 11 Hunter street, S. W., Thursday evening, October 29, at 8:30 o'clock. Appropriate to the season, the hall will be decorated in Halloween colors, and those who desire may come in costume.

A new six-piece orchestra has been engaged; the music will be better than ever, the latest dance tunes being rendered. As usual, the proceeds of this dance will be credited to the teacher-training fund of the church school. Admission, 35 cents each at the door. The public is invited to attend.

Jared Stallings Feted.

Mrs. W. T. Stallings and Mrs. J. Stallings were hostesses at a children's party yesterday afternoon at the home of the former on Kendrick avenue, in honor of Jared Stallings, in celebration of his sixteenth birthday anniversary.

The young guests included Buster Denning, Janice Shockley Jr., Walter Fanning, Billy Sumner, Florence Stallings, Warren Battle, Henrietta Battle, Rebecca Barge, Glenn Henderson, Louise Mace, Elizabeth Fanning, Milton Stallings, Joe Powell Tomlinson, Jean Adelaide Fox, Barbara Anne Moore, Lucy Mullins and Bobbie Brooks.

Exhibition Tea.

for genuine Kotex

YES, some substitutes are cleverly made to look like Kotex. But that doesn't make them safe. Are they clean, like Kotex? Scientifically made in surroundings of hospital cleanliness? Have modern methods been used, so that hands have never touched them? These questions remain unanswered, when you accept a substitute of those makers you know nothing — and they are directly related to your health. Accept no substitute of whose origin you are uncertain. When buying sanitary pads already wrapped, ask the clerk, "Is this real Kotex?" This be sure you are getting no inferior substitute. Kotex is supremely comfortable. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. Stays soft for hours. Hospitals use it. So should you.

Smithie-Purple Game Changed to November 13; G. M. A. Off Today

STAR VANDY HALFLACK LOST FOR TECH GAME

SMITHIE-PURPLE DATES CHANGED TO NOVEMBER 13

Prep Classic Moved Up Because of Georgia-Tulane Game.

By Roy White.

Ignoring that superstitious theory about Friday the 13th, Tech High and Boys' High have changed the date of their annual football game from Saturday, November 14, to Friday, November 13, at Spiller field. The announcement was made Tuesday following a conference between athletic officials of the schools and the principals.

"We are not a bit superstitious and Friday the 13th is no worse than any other day to play the game, in fact with the interest in the game increasing every day, the thirteenth seems an ideal day," W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, said Tuesday.

The change was due to the Georgia-Tulane game being played at Athens on November 14, when almost every football fan in this section will go to see the battle which may determine the Southern conference championship.

No matter what the records of the two teams are prior to the contest, it is the high spot on both schedules. A victory in the Tech High-Boys' High battle means success for either team's season record.

Due to spectacular play in winning six games, including a 13-0 victory over Knoxville High last week, Tech High is fighting its way toward a Southern prep championship.

The Smithies already have defeated two 1930 sectional champions, and have yet to play Charlotte, Benedictine, Boys' High, Lanier High and G. M. A. in the order named.

Charlotte will be met Saturday afternoon in Charlotte, all efforts to have the game transferred here having been unsuccessful.

G. M. A. Boys Off Today for Game.

Georgia Military Academy's undefeated football team will leave the city at noon today for Annapolis, Md., where it meets the Navy Plebes at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The team will arrive late Thursday afternoon and will hold a final workout Friday morning.

In addition to the football team, 25 members of the student body will make the trip and Friday will go sightseeing in Washington.

SECOND GAME.

It will be the second successive year that the Cadets have played the Navy Plebes. The game last year ended in a 6-0 victory for the young midshipmen.

G. M. A. has another of its strong teams this year. The Cadets have won four games and only six points have been scored against them. That lone touchdown came when McCallie sneaked over that ancient sideline pass play to score. G. M. A. has scored 97 points in its four games.

The Cadets have won over Notre Dame Preps, of Chattanooga; Columbus Industrial, McCallie and Boys' High. Following the game with G. M. A., plays Spartanburg, Lanier High and Tech High in the order named.

Saturday's game will be played on two fields. The first half will serve as a curtain-raiser to the Navy-Tech Virginia game and the second part will be played on the regular Navy-Tech field.

THOSE ON TRIP.

In addition to the team, Coaches M. C. Paget and Sam Burbage, Captain D. C. Woodward, athletic director at G. M. A., and Managers Elrod and Finch will make the trip.

The players include Captain Pendleton, Chase, Haysack, McCay, Page, Vaughn and Gibbert in the backfield; Elson, Moore, Galt and McGaughey, ends; Rice, Keever and Parker, tackles; Hoffberger, Quinn, Claridy and Conklin, guards, and Gannon, McMillan and B. Boulware, centers.

Fuller and Williamson are suffering from injuries and will not make the trip. Luther Allen, whose father was killed in a train-auto crash Monday, will be missing on the trip.

Benny Leonard Kayoes Foe in Third

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, floored Vittorio Livan, Italian middleweight, four times before knocking him out with a right to the jaw in the third round of their scheduled 10-round contest here tonight.

Leonard weighed 131, Livan 155. During the first round the Italian was reluctant to close in and tried to reach Benny's body with long lefts. Leonard kept backing him to the ropes with clean left and right hooks to the head with an occasional right to the body. Just before the bell Leonard staggered Livan with a sharp right to the jaw.

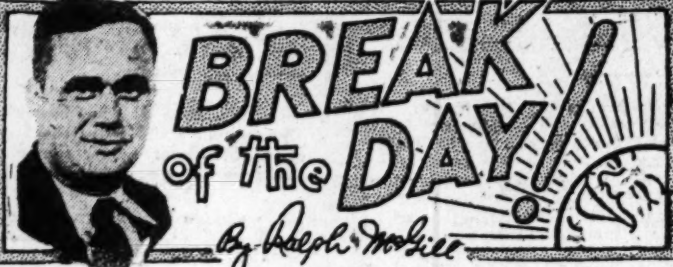

Livan was more aggressive during the second round, when Leonard took matters easy. The Italian, with his counter attack, managed to reach Benny's body with a few light lefts.

The Italian went down for a count of two under a left and right to the head soon after the third opened. Leonard then dropped him for nine with a right to the jaw. Livan made two more trips to the canvas for nine counts under Leonard's right hook to the head and left to the body after he was dropped for the fifth time.

A crowd of about 10,000 greeted the sudden ending with mingled cheers and jeers.

TWO BEST TEAMS.

Coach Frank Cavanaugh, of Fordham, says the two best teams he ever coached were Dartmouth in 1913 and Boston College in 1920.

What an ending that was—Tiny Roebuck, 240 pounds of Cherokee beef—sailing up in the air higher than the ring ropes—his mouth agape with surprise and shock—and then landing with a plop on the canvas.

And what then—there was the old call—an old football tackle had just stopped a tough one—he struggled up to his feet and fell on the man with the ball—I've seen Frank Speer do that 50 times if I've seen it once—and here he was doing it Tuesday night at the auditorium to win a wrestling match.

Only this time he was winning a wrestling match that he had no reason to win—beating a man who had been in the game two years to his six months.

It couldn't have been framed if they had tried it a thousand times—not that ending. Roebuck slung Speer to the mat—the one-time Tech tackle rolled to his back—his feet drawn up—Roebuck leaped as the feet came up—they caught the big Indian full in the stomach and he sailed one up and down.

Speer staggered to his feet and fell on him for the fall. Both men were out—Speer had that last move because for four years he had taken those licks on the football field and always came up for just one more.

Roebuck is a better wrestler. In four matches with Speer he would likely win three of them. But Speer is on the way. He absolutely astounded his friends with his show of wrestling skill. The boy is good.

And I wonder what the Tech board of strategy had to do with it?

After the second fall, which the Indian won to even the match, there went Mike Chambers, who trained speer in football; Mack Tharpe, who had played with him on the Tech team; Roy Mundorff, the basketball coach; and Jack Cannon, line coach—all back to give Speer a pep talk.

Whatever it was went over big. It was all wrong for Speer to win the match. It would look like a home-town decision. But the 3,000 who saw it know that Speer out-smarted the big fellow.

What a finish that was! Bing! Bang! And out.

VANDY LINEMEN LIKE GEORGIA.

With the populace all a-twitter, so to speak, about the coming Tulane-Georgia game at Athens on the 14th of next month, it might be interesting to hear what the Vanderbilt players have to say. They played both teams.

A wire to Nashville drew a response which declared that the majority of Vanderbilt players thought Georgia would win from Tulane.

Their reason—They do not believe the Tulane line can take the punishment administered by the Bulldog forwards.

That comes from a line that played the Georgia line even. And no doubt administered a little punishment all by itself.

Not all the Vanderbilt players figure Georgia to win. Some of the backs say Tulane will come through. And Nashville sports writers pick Tulane by about two touchdowns.

So, it doesn't mean much after all. Except that the Vanderbilt line seems to have more respect for Georgia than anyone else.

The lines will probably decide that game on November 14. And there is one weak spot in the Tulane line—one position that can be opened up. Just one. And if the Georgia quarterback finds it and starts pouring his backfield fire into it—it will break.

Georgia must play what is probably the greatest team in the east before meeting Tulane. The New York Violets are rated ahead of Harvard in all calculations. Chick Meehan has a great eleven. And many of the players that held Georgia 7 to 6 last season are playing on the second team this fall.

Georgia has no rest game as Tulane has. Some of these days there will be uniformity of schedule as well as uniformity of eligibility.

If Georgia takes a beating at New York—and they may—the Tulane cause may be helped.

No wonder everyone is getting the jitters about that Tulane-Georgia game more than two weeks before it is to be played. It has all the earmarks of a wild afternoon.

POINTING WITH PRIDE.

The Constitution sports department points with pride to the fact that in the first edition of Saturday night there were action pictures of the Georgia-Vanderbilt game. This was the first time that any Atlanta papers have ever carried pictures in the first edition of the Sunday paper of a football game played in Athens. They were brought by automobile and arrived in time for the edition. The trip was made in an hour and eight minutes from Athens to The Constitution office. O. H. Jones and Kenneth Rogers were responsible for this fine achievement.

PU-LEESEE, NOT BOTH OF THEM?

Freddie Russell, writing in the Nashville Banner, has the following to say of the Georgia end play last week:

"Wedington Kelly, Georgia end, outplayed Catfish Smith Saturday. And the latter isn't in a class with Jerry Dalrymple or Vernon Haynes of Tulane."

Which helps explain, of course, why we have juries. No two people see alike.

GIVE ME CATFISH IN THE CLUTCH.

There may be better ends than Vernon (Catfish) Smith, though I doubt it. There may be.

But when the going is tough, when no one else can do anything, this fellow Catfish Smith CAN. Not only can he but he WILL do something EVERY time.

There never has been a money player like Catfish Smith—a money player being one of those fellows who perhaps doesn't look so good except when the old clutch of circumstances demands something to bring things through.

They are saying that he had no right to catch that pass that beat Vanderbilt—that there were four Vanderbilt players about him—that it was just luck.

Not a bit of it—when Catfish Smith started he knew

GEORGIA TEAM RUNS THROUGH LIGHT SESSION

Third-Stringers Receive Mehre's Closest Attention in Long Drill.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 27.—While a third-string team took all the fresh-squid work, the Bulldogs in shape for more, Georgia's varsity went up the hill to the showers today after a brief but hard workout. An hour or so of fundamentals and signal-gunning was all the Bulldogs regulars had as the Florida game drew a day nearer.

Scrimmages Wednesday and Thursday will put the Bulldogs in shape for the Florida game, Harry Mehre decided. So today Harry Mehre worked his regulars for an hour and a half on fundamentals, practiced them a little on their plays, had them run signals for a quarter of an hour and then dismissed them for the day. The third-stringers were kept behind for 45 minutes of hard work against the freshmen.

LEAVE THURSDAY.

The Bulldogs will leave for Florida Thursday night after a hard afternoon's workout. They will disembark from their Pullmans early Friday morning at Ocala, Fla., near Gainesville, and will remain there until sometime this evening, with the exception of one hour's practice at the stadium in Gainesville Friday afternoon.

Whether those third-stringers do anything this fall or not, they certainly displayed a brand of potentiality by good football today. All but one of the eleven men who formed the third team today are playing their first year as varsity men, having them two more years to play football under Harry Mehre.

That was what cheered Harry Mehre, for he will need plenty of football players when Catfish Smith, Austin Downes and the remainder of those famous 1929 sophomores hit the graduation trail next June.

Sir Richard Maxwell, the Sanford (Fla.) end, who made good in the city, and Charlie McCrimmon, another Florida lad, may play against the boys from their home state if they show signs of pace and set for themselves today. Maxwell, a reserve last fall, came through the freshman line to spill quite a few freshmen plays today, and McCrimmon, a sophomore, a huge sophomore tackle, gave Georgia's two second-string tackles something to think about when he took a hit in his pants and tackled as if it is played in the best of circles.

BACKS SHINE.

Young Samuel Brown, who carries his slumped shoulders in a hunch in a hurry; Marion Gaston, another halfback, and Sunny Jim Stoinoff were the ones in the backfield today, along with Young, of basketball fame, who is developing into a good punter-back under Backfield Coach Rex Enright's tutelage. Defensively they were an improved lot today, and offensively they showed signs of power, drive and speed that will come in handy one of these days.

Billy Hazelhurst, 154-pound guard; Hut Parks, another guard; Bunker Hill, who has been badly hurt at the line, located at tackle after a sojourn at end; Tom Perkins, a splendid center, and Spud Garner, the light end whose name is in spring practice set him back a bit, were the others on the Bulldog line this afternoon. Harry Mehre was pleased with the way the boys looked today. Some day—not a million years from now either—they will come in handy.

Since last March, three of the American league's leaders have passed on. Ernest Sargent, who was the league's president when fiery Ban Johnson abdicated, died on March 27, and 18 hours later, Johnson himself followed Barnard. Another of Chicago's militant baseball characters, Charles Webb Murphy, owner of the Cubs during the "Dinkler to Evers to Chance" days, died last week.

It is expected that control of the White Sox, which belonged to Comiskey-franchise, players and park—will pass to his son, J. Louis Comiskey.

Florida Cripples Return to Work

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The immediate football future took on more rose-colored hue at the University of Florida today when its badly crippled backfield proved not so badly crippled after all.

Optimistic over the prospect for the home-coming fracas with Georgia here Saturday, since there still are three star backfield men out with hurts—Bryant, Crawford and Seay—all quarterbacks.

But Johnny Fountain, hurt in the Auburn game at Jacksonville last Saturday, is encouraging reports from the infirmary. It is possible he will be on hand this week-end. Sam Davis, one of the stars against Auburn, considered out of the competition against Georgia, came back for a light workout today and likely will be able to play to the home-coming crowd.

Bo McClellan, a senior ball-toter who has been out some time, coming back along with Bill Ferrazzi, the stellar center who was put out before the Syracuse tilt.

Morehouse Works For Morris Brown

With four regulars on the injured list, Morris Brown held a long signal drill and light dummy scrimmage in preparation for its annual game at 2 o'clock Saturday at Spiller Field with Morehouse College.

Moore, backfield man, and Ford, Moffett and McLemore, linemen, are suffering from injuries and will not be able to play Saturday. Credell and Robinson, who have been out with injuries, returned to the squad Tuesday and engaged in the afternoon's workout. Both will play Saturday.

Optimism is running high at Morehouse, since their defeat of Pisk University last Saturday in Nashville. Morehouse is the only undefeated colored college eleven in Atlanta.

Mahaffey, A's Star, Weds at Anderson

ANDERSON, S. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Le Roy Mahaffey, Philadelphia Athletics pitcher, and Miss Thelma Louise Williams, of Anderson, were married late yesterday at Belton.

Announcement of the marriage was made here today by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Williams, parents of the bride. The Rev. N. G. Wright performed the ceremony. The bride's age was given as 19 and Mahaffey's as 28. Mahaffey's home is at Belton.

GOOD PRACTICE.

Bob Horsley, Illinois' diminutive quarterback, learned to become a proficient forward passer by throwing the football through a barrel hoop.

COMISKEY SENT HOME FOR RITES

Body of 'Old Roman' Lies in State in Chicago, Awaiting Burial.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The body of Charles A. Comiskey, baseball's "Old Roman," came back to Chicago today to lie in state until funeral services are held Thursday morning.

The body of the owner of the Chicago White Sox, who died at his summer home at Eagle River, Wis., early yesterday, started last night on a 30-mile automobile journey to Rhineland, Wis., where it was transferred to a train scheduled to arrive at 8:45 this morning.

Services will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. at St. Thomas the Apostle Roman Catholic church, and burial will be in Calvary. The body was accompanied by the Old Roman's only son, J. Louis Comiskey, and Harry Grabner, secretary of the White Sox and Comiskey's closest confidant.

Comiskey's last illness came upon him while he still was trying to build a club to replace his American league champions of 1919, which he wrecked after the scandal which followed the 1919 series. He retired to a virtual seclusion several years ago when his health began to fail.

Since last March, three of the American league's leaders have passed on. Ernest Sargent, who was the league's president when fiery Ban Johnson abdicated, died on March 27, and 18 hours later, Johnson himself followed Barnard. Another of Chicago's militant baseball characters, Charles Webb Murphy, owner of the Cubs during the "Dinkler to Evers to Chance" days, died last week.

It is expected that control of the White Sox, which belonged to Comiskey-franchise, players and park—will pass to his son, J. Louis Comiskey.

Friedman Signs For Pro Football

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Benny Friedman, former University of Michigan all-American quarterback, who resigned the captaincy of the New York Giants professional football team to become assistant backfield coach at Yale, yesterday signed to play with the Giants during the balance of the season.

Friedman will report for practice tomorrow morning, and will make his first appearance with the Giants Sunday. All Giants' practice sessions are held in the morning, and will not interfere with Friedman's duties at Yale.

3 Erring Players Earn Varsity Trial

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27.—(AP)—As a reward for hard work, three of the five members of the Princeton football team who were suspended early in the season for infraction of the training rules, have been returned to the varsity squad.

All five were suspended from the squad for one week and then demoted to the scrubs. Three of them have done such good work with the scrubs they probably will figure in Nassau lineups for the remainder of the season.

The identity of the five suspended players never has been revealed.

'Catfish' Smith Earns Reputation as Winner

Was Once a Substitute at High School, But Just Look at Him Now.

By Jimmy Jones.

"In a basketball game he'll go an entire half without getting a point and chances are he'll shoot the winning goal in the last minute of play. In a baseball game he'll strike out three times in a row and then knock a home run with the bases loaded—it's a home run is necessary."

That is a coach's cryptic summing up of Vernon Smith, commonly called The Catfish. He is the great "money player" of collegiate athletics. But please don't confuse the term with the professional version. The Carnegie Foundation fathers might wake up and start twittering.

The Catfish does not pole home runs or down runners behind the line of scrimmage for the obvious reason that Babe Ruth hits home runs or that which inspires Jack Dempsey to chop a rival pugilist's countenance into a tendon. Smith does these things because he is a born winner.

All Smith needs is a challenge to accomplish the superhuman. He is a barefoot boy on a fishing trip. A playmate dared him to bite off the head of a live catfish.

Smith didn't do a thing but take the slimy, wriggling catfish in his two hands, twerk its whiskers a couple of times, look it squarely in the eyes and then calmly bite its head off right even with the gills. Just like that he did it—with one snap of his jaws.

"CATFISH."

His awed fellows named him "Catfish" on the spot and without ceremony. Thus Smith earned his famous sobriquet Indian fashion. A young brave must earn a bear in his lair or something like that before he means anything at the council fire or in the tribal directory.

If Smith had been a Napoleon, the Russian invasion would never have been a failure. He would have made it through or bust. At Waterloo, he would have let the Iron Duke of Wellington run up and down the battlefield, and then he would have stood the duke on his royal dome, probably for a 200-year loss.

This rugged son of a Macon railroad man still is glad that he bit off the head of the catfish. Had the episode not occurred, he would have been in dire danger of being called "Rip" Smith for the rest of his life. He slept through an entire first half of an important high school game between his school (Lanier High) and Savannah. He rushed to the scene of the game with heavy eyelids and tousled hair, but his team had not missed him. Think of it!

THE FRAGILE CATFISH.

Vernon was only a thin-legged, stringy substitute of 160 pounds and his coach only sent him in to catch passes. "Smithy" could grab them even then. But he was not a regular because he was too fragile to stand up under the pounding at end. That's hard to believe now when one looks Continued on Second Sports Page.

JESS THOMAS JOINS INJURED AT VANDERBILT

Coaches Seek To Get Leonard in Shape for Game.

By Ralph McGill.

"Jesse Thomas will be lost for the Tech game but Amos Leonard may play," said Coach Dan E. McGugin in a long distance interview Tuesday afternoon.

Thomas, one of the best halfbacks in the south, was tripped when he entered the Georgia game last week, and should not have been used then, according to the Commodore coach.

"We were just trying to do everything we could to win that game Saturday," and used Thomas when we probably shouldn't have," continued the coach.

"We have been harder hit by injuries this year than at any time in my career as coach," he said. "The injuries this year seemed to strike the best men. We built a lot of plays around Amos Leonard and he broke an arm in the first game we played."

FAUST INJURED.

"We then shifted and developed other men. We lost Faust, our fullback. He may be ready to face Tech Saturday but I am not sure."

"Then there is Jesse Thomas and Close, halfback and quarterback. I don't think any coach has ever had an entire backfield string washed out by injuries before the season was half gone."

Commodore Dan McGugin said that he hoped to have Captain Amos Leonard ready for the Tech game. He will not hold him out of the game if it is possible for him to play.

Vernon (Mighty) Close, the quarterback, who played a short while in the Georgia game, will likely be ready for the Jackets. But it isn't sure.

ASKS ABOUT TECH.

Coach Dan McGugin asked plaintively about the condition of the Tech team.

"They are always strong against us," he said. "I never saw a team like it. Tulane can beat them by a large score, but the Vanderbilt team knows it will have a tough time winning."

The Commodores will leave Nashville Friday morning and arrive in Atlanta shortly after 6 o'clock that evening. They will go directly to their hotel and will not attempt any work at night.

The game Saturday promises to be one of the best of the season. With the Commodores crippled by injuries the Jackets have a chance to upset the dope by winning or holding the Commodores to a close score.

Jackets To See Vandy Plays Today.

Coach William A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, is not yet sure that Captain Amos Leonard, the speedy Vandy halfback, will be in the Commodore lineup against his team Saturday, but with or without Leonard, he conceded the Tennessee team plenty of dangerous ball carrying power.

Even with Jesse Thomas out, they will pack formidable backfield ability. Coach Alex thinks Dixie Roberts, Tommy Hendon and Chugly Fortune compose a very capable trio.

In fact, the bare-headed Henderson who ran and kicked so well against Georgia, is a threat in that game. Roberts also is a hard runner once in the open field.

The Jackets helped pad the electric meters Saturday night, the squad working until well after midnight. Today they will have a look at Vandy plays—particularly those long passes that McGugin eleven uses.

Yesterday the Grey Devils of Mack Tharpe were doing some strong-arm throwing, getting ready to throw against the varsity today.

Coach Alex plans no change in his starting lineup Saturday. Clint Exell will be ready to go at tackle in Clingman's place.

"It wasn't so much that we were not equipped to do the right thing against Tulane, but the fact that we failed to do it that helped Tulane run up the score," Alexander stated.

A blocked kick and intercepted pass figured in the Wave's scoring. Considerable time will be devoted this week to brushing up Tech's offense, particularly the passing.

Coach Alexander was far from pleased with the aerial attack the Jackets used against Tulane.

Sigma Pi Enters Emory Net Finals

Sigma Pi defeated Alpha Tau Omega, 4-1, Tuesday afternoon on Dobbs courts at Emory in the semi-finals of the Emory inter-fraternity tennis tournament.

Fincher McDaniel, Sigma Pi netman, trounced Eugene Griffin, Alpha Tau Omega, 6-1, 6-3, in the feature match of the contest. Fincher pulled his opponent to the net time after time with short placements, and smashed the ball past him on the next return. Both players were placing their shots accurately and it was only a matter of more skill on Fincher's part that won the match.

Jim Manget gave Sigma Pi its second point with an easy 6-3, 6-2 victory over Alwyn Thompson, Alpha Tau Omega. John Connell won Alpha Tau Omega's only match on a 6-2, 6-2 victory over John Rooney.

Sigma Pi won both doubles matches. Bill Bailey and Bevo Coleman trounced Billy Love and Bill Thomas, Alpha Tau Omega, 6-4, 6-0, in the first doubles. Kenneth Counts and Rex Hutchinson defeated Jimmy Tolbert and Tom Hudson, 6-1, 6-4, to complete the victory.

Sigma Pi will meet Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the finals Thursday afternoon on Dobbs courts. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, with Jack Boykin, Georgia intercollegiate champion on its team, is favored to win the title.

RADIO SCOUTING.

When Indiana University had an open date Coach Hayes turned on the radio and with his men grouped about him scouted the Northwestern Wildcats over the air.

Clean Records at Stake in Intersectional Battles Next Saturday

LEADING TEAMS ARE FAVORITES BY HEAVY ODDS

Georgia Plays Florida, Tech Meets Vandy in Dixie Features.

By Henry McLemore, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Six intersectional games, four of which involve undefeated major eleven, feature the nation's football schedule for the coming week-end.

The four teams with perfect records—Notre Dame, N. Y. U., Syracuse and Harvard—all are favored to win. Notre Dame, with one of the finest machines ever turned out in the South Bend factory, is expected to have little or no trouble in trouncing the Skibos of Carnegie Tech. The same thing goes for N. Y. U.'s powerful forces against Oregon. The far westerners kicked the New Yorkers in their last meeting a couple of years ago, but are conceded little chance this year.

Harvard's Johnnies, who have bowled over Army and Texas in the last two weeks, could use everybody but the dean and still come home in front of a weak Virginia outfit. Syracuse, the fourth undefeated major team to take on an intersectional foe, is a slight favorite over Michigan State, but there is an element of chance that "Sleepy Jim" Crowley's chances will upset the cr—ah dope, if you please.

TIGERS UNDERDOGS. The most interesting intersectional tilt of the day from a traditional standpoint, at least, is Michigan's invasion of the east to take on Princeton's badly battered Tigers. Michigan and Princeton played the first intersectional football game on record way back in the days when halfbacks wore whiskers and knighthood was in flower. Saturday's game will mark the resumption of this ancient rivalry. Michigan, unless it gets in a wreck coming east, will win by from here to Borneo.

Colorado College will come east to meet West Point in what is another intersectional tilt. We hope the Colorado boys enjoy the scenery, for that's all they'll get for their trouble. Other eastern games of interest will pit Columbia against Cornell, Dartmouth against Yale, Navy against West Virginia Wesleyan, Lafayette against Penn, and Holy Cross against Brown.

DOWN SOUTH. The mid-west has several high class attractions. Northwestern's powerful outfit meeting Illinois, Indiana taking on Ohio State, Minnesota tangling with Wisconsin, and Purdue playing Chicago.

Down south Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs meet Florida, Vanderbilt takes on Georgia Tech, Alabama clashes with Kentucky, Tennessee engages Duke, and North Carolina plays North Carolina State.

Saturday will be somewhat of an off-day for the far west. University of Southern California, thinking of Stanford a week later, will take a day of rest, while Stanford is booked for nothing more strenuous than a workout with U. C. L. A. Oregon State and Washington State are expected to provide the best football of the day in their section.

Interest in the southwest is centered on S. M. U.'s date with Texas, Centenary's engagement with the Texas Aggies, and the meeting between Arkansas and Texas Christian.

Petrel Rats Play Tifton on Friday

The game having been delayed a week by mutual agreement, the Oglethorpe University freshmen and Tech Aggies will play Friday at Tifton, Coach Overton, freshman coach, announced yesterday.

"We expect the game to be harder than our first of the season against Auburn freshmen, for Tifton recently defeated Oglethorpe at Miami at Miami, Fla."

Since meeting Auburn, however, the freshmen have had more opportunity to develop offensive strength, and the game will furnish an answer to Overton's belief that he has a potentially powerful team in the making.

CATFISH EARNS 'REP' AS WINNER

at the strapping Catfish, grown into a giant of a man.

Smith does not play tennis, although he bears a slight facial resemblance to Bill Tilden. If he did play tennis, he would lose a few love sets and then come back with a flock of aces to win the match. He doesn't play golf. If he did, he'd be a star in the rough for several holes and then score one off the tee for a hole in one.

In the Yale game an Eli back made Smith look bad on a play. He swallowed his chagrin and then on the next play he rushed a Yale runner back 28 yards and three.

ELEVATES POOR FISH. Vernon Smith has done a lot to elevate the lowly catfish, scorned by our better anglers. It's shame that he did not bite off the head of a salmon. It would have been a boon to the salmon industry and on becoming an alumnus he might be paid a handsome price for the use of his photo and endorsement on the outside of salmon cans. "Smith became a great athlete by eating our salmon."

This is but a chapter from Catfish Smith's boyhood. It sounds like another fish story, but it is the real sardine, we assure you.

Wrestling, Boxing On Friday Night

Jack McAdams, who is in excellent condition after a four day rest, will wrestle Ted Radcliff and "Whitey" Patterson will take on Bill Manley, of Oglethorpe University, in the featured wrestling bouts of the mixed show sponsored by the athletic and social club of the Georgia Power Company Friday night.

Greek George and Jimmie Jones, two new boys, will meet on the card. Battling Mike will box Bonnie Reagan and Lenwood Oxford will meet Battling Reeves in the boxing bouts.

BIG BILL VICTOR.

HAMBURG, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Big Bill Tilden defeated the German, Hans Nusslein, 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 8-6, in an exhibition professional tennis match today. Frank Hunter defeated Albert Burke, 6-4, 9-7, 6-2.

Another Insight Into Atlanta's Dog Life - - - Some Blue Bloods

LA GORCE OPEN OFF NEXT YEAR

Tournament Interferes With Club Members' Playing, Secretary Says.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 27.—(UP)—The $15,000 La Gorce open, for the past four years the nation's richest golf tournament, became an event of history instead of a prospect for gold-seeking golfers today.

Glenn L. Adams, secretary of La Gorce Club here, announced on his return from the north that the tournament would not be held in 1932. His statement gave as a reason for discontinuing play in the $15,000 event the fact that the tournament interfered with the play by members of the club, many of whom are wealthy winter residents here.

Announcement of plans to discontinue the tournament came as a blow to persistent rumors here that the purse would be reduced to $10,000 for the 1932 tournament.

During its four-year existence, the La Gorce open attracted the winter caravan of golfers parading through the southern states. Played in March of each year, it represented the last of the southern tournaments before the troops of professionals and amateurs headed into the north for spring and summer play.

Johnny Farrell, Horton Smith, Wild Bill Melhorn and Gene Sargent were, in succession, the winners of the La Gorce open, each one adding the $5,000 first in money to his year's winnings as a substantial boost.

Gasparilla Open Stated in February.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 27.—(UP)—The Gasparilla open, a new professional tournament with $4,000 in prize money will be held here February 18 to 21. It differs from most such events because it features match play instead of medal.

Robert E. Harlow, manager of the tournament bureau of the Professional Golfers' Association of America notified the Tampa Golf Association of the dates. His only stipulation was that the prize money must be guaranteed. Clarence Holtzinger, member of the Tampa association, said $1,000 had been raised and the rest would be underwritten by local people.

EVERY POSITION.

Madison Bell, head coach of the fast-stepping Texas Aggies, had previous coaching experience at Haskell Institute, Carroll College and Texas Christian. He started at Centre College and during his playing days held down every position on the team.

BROTHERS STAR.

Nat Grossman, of New York University, and Jack Grossman, of Rutgers, are brothers who are stars at passing.

Ladies and Gentlemen Prefer Variety in Dogs

Atlanta Sportsmen Develop Fine Pair of Setters—Great Dane Shows Motherly Love.

By Jimmy Jones.

Open season on quail will be declared now in about three weeks and the big bird dog men of the state will be trotting out fancy young pups with fancy pedigrees to see how they perform under fire.

The task of developing a bird dog is far from an easy one but it is one in which the average hunter takes a keen delight—especially if it be a home bred pup.

H. H. Jenkins and M. A. Miot, two Atlanta sportsmen, have collaborated in rearing a pair of fine young dogs that they hope will show some of the fine points of their sire, Whitestone Chief, noted Lowellyn setter owned by the Rumson Farms kennel, of Rumson, N. J. Whitestone Chief sired five dogs who turned in 25 field trial victories each.

The pups also are descendants of such royal setters as Caesar, Prince Rodney, Mommy II, all famous field trial winners, and Mohawk II, greatest dog on the circuit in his time.

On their dam's side is such class as Champion Phil's, Speed Ben, Lew Cornell, Marsie Ben, Count White-stone, Prince Whitestone and Count-cill's Rodfield. Speed Ben won 15 times in fast company and sired 23 noted setters.

Jenkins' pup carries the distinguished title of Whitestone's Chief Ben and Miot's pretty little female, Whitestone's Nelly Bly. Big things are expected of both.

A GREAT DANE MOTHER. Switching to another breed, but sticking to the subject of dogs, there is a story of a Great Dane mother in Atlanta that may be interesting to dog lovers.

Her name is Whitewave and she is owned by J. Ven Lundeen, of 2796 Alston drive. The Great Dane is a mighty viking race and is capable of destroying an entire pack of lesser animals, but good breeding from old line stock has left a strong human element in this is shown in the loyalty of the male and the motherly instinct of the female.

Whitewave recently became the mother of 10 pups. Two were taken from her and put on a bottle. When Whitewave was laid out on a lawn to pose for a picture, the two weaned pups were restored to her litter. She fondled them joyously, rolled them over with her nose and gave them a thorough inspection to see if they had been harmed in any way.

She was reluctant to part with them again. There was a mother with eight tiny charges, yet she would have gladly taken on two more.

Although setters and pointers are popular with sportsmen, one finds the ladies' taste in dogs running to different breeds. For example, Miss Sara Harmon likes her Pekinese. She has several of the dainty little fellows at her home.

Miss Ruth Williams is very proud of her German shepherd, Dawn, voted best in the last novice show. C. E. Renfro, of 229 Techwood, specializes in collies. There are a great number of fine collies around, so Frank Cornett, one of our leading canine experts tells us.

PENN'S VICTORY UPSETS CRITICS

Lafayette Also Surprises With Defeat of Washington & Jefferson.

By Walter Trumbull.

(Copyright, 1931, by The Constitution by the South American News Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Well, some of us had all of Saturday's games right, except that, as we guessed the wrong winners.

Two of the most surprising results in the east were Wisconsin's defeat by Pennsylvania and Lafayette's victory over Washington-Jefferson.

Wisconsin, having beaten Purdue, brought a big, powerful team to Philadelphia to play what was practically an untied eleven, with a new coach and new system. The Badgers were hailed as one of the strongest teams in the Western conference.

Nevertheless, Pennsylvania, with Carl Perina leading the assault, left no doubt as to which was the better football machine. Meanwhile, Lafayette was known to be strong, but had lost to Colgate, while Washington-Jefferson had shown power in trimming Carnegie and Western Maryland. It looked like a tough game, but that Lafayette would run all over its opponent seemed more than unlikely. Yet that is what happened.

EASY FOR CRIMSON.

Harvard trimmed Texas, as it figured to do, but Barry Wood, Jack Crickard and the rest of the Crimson array won with surprising ease. Navy was a better looking team than Princeton, and proved itself to be just that. Fordham won from Drake almost as easily as did Notre Dame the week before. This Fordham team is good.

The Yale-Army struggle was one of the thrillers of the day, marred only by the shocking but unavoidable accident to Richard Sheridan. There was no question of piling up or rough play. The eager young soldier threw himself at a runner in the open, and was unfortunate enough to hit him head on. Impetus did the rest.

Injuries of the same type have been sustained by diving from the height into shallow water. But that doesn't make this case of one of the most popular men in the United States Military Academy any easier.

After rather a slow start, the game at New Haven crowded its last play with excitement. Parker's gallop for a touchdown was not only a great piece of running and interference, but it inspired his team. After that 90-yard dash, the Yale offense clicked in fine style. Before the season is over, this Yale outfit is going to be hard to beat. Statistics show that the Blue out-rushed, out-passed and out-kicked Army.

LINED UP GOOD. Army guards and Yale tackles distinguished themselves. Yale guards and Army tackles were good. Both teams showed some splendid backfield men. Stecker, of Army, is a star.

ROBBY DECIDES ON HIS PETRELS FOR TIGER GAME

Game Change Confirmed by Deacons; Work Is Speeded Up.

By Jack Troy.

Confirmation of the shifting of the Oglethorpe-Wake Forest game at Herndon field to Friday, November 13, as announced Tuesday morning in The Constitution, was received yesterday from Coach Pat Miller, of Wake Forest.

Frank Anderson, director of athletics at Oglethorpe, received a wire confirming the change yesterday. The game, originally scheduled to be played Saturday, November 14, was changed to a day earlier because of a conflict in dates with the Georgia-Tulane game at Athens, which is expected to have a direct bearing on the Southern conference championship and attract the majority of Atlanta football fans for that day.

ALL PLAYERS OUT.

In order that fans who so desire may attend both games, Dr. Thorne, well known, president of Oglethorpe, and Coach Harry Robertson conferred Monday and decided on the change, subject to the approval of Wake Forest officials.

With every player in uniform save Jeff Holden, who was ill, the Oglethorpe squad speeded preparations for the Clemson game with a scrimmage yesterday.

The practice definitely disclosed the starting team for the Tiger game Saturday at Clemson, S. C. It will be Claude Herrin, quarterback; Frank Anderson and Lefty Spert, halfbacks; Dapper Myers, fullback; Captain Parker Bryant and Paul Goldsmith, ends; Dave Barrow and Dan Kenzie, tackles; John Patrick and Marion Whaley, guards, and Andy Morrow, center.

CLEMSON PLAYS.

A long dummy scrimmage against Clemson plays preceded the regular scrimmage. The varsity tried working their plays against a freshmen-imposed Clemson defense, and then switched over to the defense.

In the scrimmage Frank Anderson suffered a leg bruise, but is expected to be all right for today's drill.

The varsity continues to keep pace with recent showings in the Loyola and Furman games, running ruthlessly through the green-shirted yearlings yesterday.

Spud Kratz scouted Clemson against South Carolina and reports that, despite a bad season, the Tigers will present stern opposition to the Petrel forces.

ROBBY ALONE.

Coach Robertson is continuing as a one-man coaching staff as Kenneth (Nutter) Campbell, backfield coach, is kept from the practices through illness.

A cinder lodged in Campbell's eye after the Manhattan game and inflammation later set in. He has been ill ever since.

Coach Robertson was undecided yesterday whether he would hold another scrimmage today. He feels that the varsity hardly needs the contact work

Bearded Loyalty Banned at Hobart

GENEVA, N. Y., Oct. 27.—

(UP)—A faculty seemingly unsympathetic with the loyalty of several Hobart students who pledged themselves not to shave until their alma mater won a football game, was responsible for the entrance into classes today of faces clean shaven for the first time in nearly a month.

As a gesture of faith in their team a select group of students after the Syracuse game vowed not to shave until Hobart broke a succession of 21 straight losses. Defeated by St. Lawrence, Union and Kenyon followed, and a chapter of the House of David seemed imminent until some of the faculty, their aesthetic senses perhaps outraged, took the bearded students to one side and unofficially suggested that it would not be a bad idea to show their confidence in the team in some other manner.

GOING IN SPRING.

The Striplings are going to Europe in the spring. That's set. Meanwhile they will see what is to be done here. Nate Lewis, the Bald Eagle, wants Stripling to meet either Carnera or the winner of the coming Schaff-Griffiths fight. "Pa" will accept that, he said.

The winter season in Miami will find some good fights in cards being staged. "Pa" has Max Baer, Risio and Retzlaff under consideration for the matches there.

An Atlanta fight and one in California in the winter, probably December 8, are also under consideration. Pat McCarthy, Boston heavyweight, is the man now being considered as W. L.'s Atlanta foe.

"PA" IS BUSY.

"Pa" is busy with his fighters. Battling Bezo, the light-heavy contender, beat Kayo Christner Monday night in Birmingham. "Pa" leaves today for Orangeburg, S. C., where Herbert Stripling is to fight one of the champions from the fleet that is now at Charleston. "Pa" doesn't even know the name of the fighter.

They had the Striplings about counted out at the Cleveland fight they did after the Berlenbach and Sharkey fights, but they are still busier than any other fighters.

SONS OF STARS.

Paul Stagg, young Pat Page, Bill Cassels and George Schurr Jr., University of Chicago football players, are sons of former stars there.

and probably will devote the remainder of the week to polishing team play.

BREAK of the DAY

he was going to catch it. One can turn back the pages of Georgia history in the past two seasons and as much of this one as has been played and find that things turned on the play of this fellow Smith in the old clutches.

For three years he was the man who started Yale on the road down hill. There is no telling when he has broken through and made tackles, caught passes and blocked rival ends to make things come through.

There is no better end—they may have more finesse at Tulane but in the old clutch pass me the Catfish.

KELLY'S PLAY PLEASES.

The play of Weddington Kelly has been a great relief to the Georgia coaches. They were quite worried about the end position. In the spring practice and the early fall work it was almost given to a sophomore. Kelly, it was thought, was too light.

And now Kelly is rated as one of the better ends in the south. Filling Herb Maffett's shoes was a great task. But Kelly has just about done it. He doesn't have to wear but one pair of socks to keep from rattling anyhow.

THE SPIRIT OF EDINBOROUGH.

Mr. Walter Wilkes, who covered the Tennessee-Alabama game at Knoxville some days ago, reports that some movie fans came out of a theater where "The Spirit of Notre Dame" was showing and hailed a taxi to go to the football game.

The taxi had hiked prices about double the usual tax.

"And this," said one of the visitors, "is the spirit of Scotland, I suppose."

PETE GRACEY ARRIVES.

Pete Gracey was probably the best center in the south last season. A great center on an undefeated team was awarded the All-Southern honors. Gracey appears to be on the road to that position now.

Gracey isn't a big fellow. He weighs about 185, which, of course, is pretty big. But he isn't in the 200-pound class as most great linemen are.

The funny thing is that Gracey has a brother at the University of Tennessee who was a better player than Pete in prep school. And the Tennessee brother is so interested in an agricultural course that he can't be bothered with football.

FROM THE BATTLEGROUND.

Gracey hails from Franklin, Tenn., and the Battle Ground Academy. Franklin is a small place where the interurban stops, but it has produced more great Vanderbilt football players than any other city of any size.

Josh Cody, Rip King, Nuck Brown, Tom Brown, Innis Brown, Bunt Beasley and a half dozen more all hailed from Franklin.

It must be the limestone in the water down there. The fastest horses used to come from there and the best show horses are still obtained from Franklin. The supply of good men and good horses holds out.

A GREAT GAME SATURDAY.

Expect a great game Saturday when Tech meets Vanderbilt at the Flats. It always is a great game. Vanderbilt will not be able to score many touchdowns against the Jackets that day.

There is something about the old games that brings players up to a greater fighting pitch. And the Tech players will be there Saturday.

DICKSON WANTS W. L. TO FIGHT PRIMO IN PARIS

Nate Lewis Bids for Strib's Services for Winter Bouts.

By Ralph McGill.

A plea from Jeff Dickson to come over to Europe and bring W. L. Stripling along with him: a wire from Nate Lewis, the Bald Eagle of the Boul Mich, that he wanted W. L. there, and plans for W. L. to appear in Miami this winter were waiting for "Pa" Stripling when he arrived in Atlanta Tuesday.

The letter from Jeff Dickson was urgent and gave the interesting information that Primo Carnera is leaving soon for Europe.

Carnera is having trouble getting his fights sanctioned. His owners have evidently held a meeting and obtained a majority vote of about 90 to 40 in favor of sending the big fellow over to pick up any loose change in Paris or London.

LARGE PURSE.

Dickson offered large guarantees for a Stripling-Carnera match in London and another in Paris.

"It looks as if W. L. will have a Carnera match either in this country or abroad," said "Pa" last night. "That suits us. W. L. can lick him."

"Say," said "Pa," warning to his subject, "they may as well let Jack Sharkey knocking Carnera down once. Well, W. L. knocked him down three times in one match."

Despite all the offers from Dickson in Paris, where the one-time Mississippi country boy is promoting the palatial Palais Des Sports, "Pa" says he will be unable to accept the offers until the winter season here is done with.

GOING IN SPRING.

The Striplings are going to Europe in the spring. That's set. Meanwhile they will see what is to be done here. Nate Lewis, the Bald Eagle, wants Stripling to meet either Carnera or the winner of the coming Schaff-Griffiths fight. "Pa" will accept that, he said.
